Voter apathy, ignored issues mark election

A Herald Staff Report
First in a series

Interviews with scores of people in legislative districts stretching from the North Shore to Elgin and DuPage County in recent days indicate a high degree of voter apathy and little focus on any key issues.

The Herald conducted random interviews with residents in the 1st through 5th legislative districts to sense what voters feel are important issues.

Many of those questioned candidly admitted they could not identify an issue of local concern in their legislative district. A high number of persons also said they had no real preference regarding issues in any race on the ballot for the Nov. 2 election.

MUNICIPAL OFFICIALS in communities not regularly covered by The Herald were able to identify issues of a particular interest to them.

A number of municipal officials, especially in the 1st Legislative District, which includes Wheeling and Buffalo Grove and stretches east to the Lake through New Trier Township, focused on taxes and education as major concerns.

"I really don't see that for Winnetka there are any major issues in the state other than taxes. And that is really a school problem," Winnetka Village Pres. Augustus Knight said.

Interviews conducted at the Northbrook Court Shopping Center in that village, however, failed to produce any significant comments on issues from more than a score of persons.

"THE MAJOR ISSUE is to maintain the same level of taxes we have now," said George Campbell of Glenview.

Voters questioned in the Elgin area cited crime related problems as the issue foremost on their mind.

"I'm scared to death to open my mouth. The town just isn't like it used to be. The people are not just good citizens," one woman told a Herald reporter.

The man on the street concern about crime appears to be shared by city officials.

"People in Elgin, especially the elderly, are frightened and justly so over the continuing increase in this area." Elgin Mayor Richard Verbic said.

RESIDENTS IN OTHER parts of the 2nd Legislative District, which includes the bulk of Palatine and Barrington Townships, tended to lean toward more generalized comments about taxes and the economy.

Some persons questioned in Barrington complained about the upsurge of new multiple family development, an issue which does not directly affect members of the legislature.

Reporters detected local name recognition of candidates in only one legislative district in this area, despite the fact the candidates are spending thousands of dollars on campaigns and appearing at countless numbers of coffee meetings, candidates' nights and forums.

"I think there will be a very interesting campaign between Chapman and Brennan," said Mrs. Edward Harvey of Arlington Heights.

Others questioned also pointed to the reelection bids of State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and State Sen. David J. Renger, R-Mount Prospect. Both played key roles in California Gov. Ronald Reagan's unsuccessful Illinois primary campaign.

"I think their association with Reagan could help," said Lawrence C. Stoneberg of Mount Prospect.

While many persons were unable to cite specific local issues that had them concerned, a review of their views on the issues will be covered in the coming days.

Tomorrow: 1st Legislative District

THEY'RE PILING them high at C. Bruno and Sons, Wheeling, a wholesale supplier of musical instruments. Officials there travel the world for the instruments crafted in some surprising places. Everything from gongs to violins is stored in the company's temperature-controlled warehouse, 177 W. Hintz Rd.

Hanson searches everywhere

Sounds of music play worldwide

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Today

Ron Henson searches the world, from the rain forests of Taiwan to the timeless villages of Germany, for the sounds of music.

He's looking for jaw harps and mandolins — in fact any instrument that will pluck the strings of a music lover's heart.

Catering to the American public's preference in musical instruments is not an easy job, says the vice president of C. Bruno and Son, whose Midwest division is located at 177 W. Hintz Rd., Wheeling.

HIS FORMULA for success sounds deceptively simple: Don't try to anticipate or dictate the public's musical tastes. Just give them 7,000 different instrumests to choose from and let them make their own choice.

The business of supplying people with musical instruments hasn't really changed too much since 1834 when Charles Bruno first began creating and selling his own instruments from the back of a horse-drawn carriage, Henson said.

Prices have gone up. A wooden guitar that was handcarved and crafted would have cost about $42 back then. Today, a guitar made of wood and synthetic materials, manufactured mostly by machine, can cost anywhere from $29 to $2,900, he said.

"It just depends on the type of instrument you're talking about, the materials and craftsmanship that goes into it and the quality that comes out," he said.

Charles Bruno started his business in Macon, Ga., making the banjos, guitars, accordions and fiddles that were in strong demand in the early 19th Century.

TODAY, HENSON and other company officials scout the world for every kind of instrument imaginable. They wholesale them to musical instrument dealers and large department stores.

"The best gongs I've ever been able to find are manufactured in a Taiwanese factory that has a tin roof, dirt floor and slab walls that you could throw a baseball through," Henson said.

"You have to walk through the mud and muck on foot to get there. You can't take your car. The people sit on the floor with a piece of wood, a hammer and an anvil and make the gongs. Then they tune them perfectly," he said.

Conditions under which different instruments are manufactured change drastically from one country to the next, he said.

"IN A GUITAR factory in Japan, you can watch the wooden logs go in. They are sawed in the mill, dried slowly in a kiln and then worked. You see the finished product as a guitar or a piano. Everything is automated," Henson said.

It can take months and even years to make a good instrument.

Families in some German hamlets spend their entire lives carving, assembling and polishing fine violins. There are recorders from Israel in the Bruno warehouse and tubas from the United States. The company's catalog includes thousands of accessories, parts and pieces.

"Aside from the travel, it's an interesting business because you can never second guess what the public will want," he said. "Guitars are bigger than ever and have been the thing since Elvis and The Beatles started it all. In the 1930s it was the Hawaiian guitar, and in the 1940s it was the accordion."

MODERN TECHNOLOGY has even made it possible to buy a synthesizer that reproduces the sound of many instruments or a distortion pedal which can be attached to string instruments that garbles what pure sound there might be.

"We've received orders for harmonicas and kazoos that people sell at the cash register in liquor stores and restaurants," Henson said.

"We've had the General Services Administration of the federal government order guitars and tamborines for American schools in foreign countries.

"We take music from all parts of the world and then send it back again," he said.

Dist. 59 to pick new member at meeting tonight

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education tonight is expected to name a new member and reconsider providing funds to maintain the township's school bicycle safety program.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Dist. 59 Administration Center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Six candidates are seeking to fill a vacant position on the Dist. 59 board. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Charles Canupp, 262 Greenbrier St., Elk Grove Village, who said new responsibilities in his job at Speery Universal will not allow him enough time to be a good board member.

THE SIX CANDIDATES are Edward D. Tiedeman, 670 Brantwood Ave., Elk Grove Village; Sharon Chavoen, 641 Burgundy Ct., Elk Grove Village; Erwin Poklacki, 1223 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights; Saul Cohen, 312 Dorchester Lane, Elk Grove Village; Gerald Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham Rd., Elk Grove Village; and Lynn Clapper, 1523 S. Kaspar, Arlington Heights.

Smiley and Poklacki are former Dist. 59 board members.

In addition to naming a new member, the board will reconsider funding for the bus service for the township's school bicycle safety program. The board's withdrawal last month of a bus used to transport Dist. 59 children to the training facility has jeopardized the program.

Father dies of accident injuries

Boy, 8, sister, 6, become orphans

Eight-year-old Scott Garreau spent Sunday playing with a new litter of puppies at his grandparents' home, visiting an ice cream shop and "getting his mind off things."

Only 12 hours earlier he was told his father, 27-year-old Wayne Garreau of Schaumburg, had died of injuries received in an Oct. 10 car collision which took the life of his mother, Margaret, 27.

Garreau, who walked a tightrope of life and death at St. Therese Hospital in Waukegan for nearly a week, died Friday, leaving Scott and his 6-year-old sister Caroline to face life without parents.

Friends and relatives had tried to brace Scott for the worst. They told him his father "was on the line."

Scott asked them, "Can't we move the line? Can we get Daddy away from it?"

Scott was told Saturday night his father had died, but it wasn't until Sunday afternoon that the impact of the news had its effect. Friends say he took it pretty hard.

The children's godfather, Alan Schinkowsky, 1207 Race Ave., Arlington Heights, had taken Scott around to the ice cream parlor and his grandparents house, "getting his mind off things," Schinkowsky said.

Caroline, who lies wrapped in a body cast at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, still does not know the ate of her parents or of the family dog Samantha, also killed in the Saturday night crash more than a week ago.

The 6-year-old student at Campanelli School in Schaumburg will be in the hospital about 12 weeks. She is now in traction as doctors attempt to mend her broken thigh bone. A pin has already been placed in her knee.

"She's really been pleased with the letters and notes people have sent her," Schinkowsky said. "Her whole first grade class at Campanelli sent her cards."

Caroline, who is listed in good condition, will "pull through fine. It's just a matter of time," Schinkowsky said.

As for Scott, Schinkowski said he's been in good spirits most of the time with "people buying him toys and goodies. He loves that."

But the situation is not good for 21-year-old Thomas Lebrecht of Wonder Lake, the driver of the van that collided with the Garreau station wagon.

Officials at Sherman Hospital in Elgin said Sunday Lebrecht is still in critical condition and has been given little chance for survival. He is now in the intensive-care unit.

A passenger in the van, 21-year-old Mark Kaefer of Wonder Lake, was killed instantly in the collision.

As for the Garreau children, Schinkowsky said Sunday it'll be up to the grandparents to decide where they will go.

"There have been several offers (to take the children in), but nothing has been decided," he said.

Family friends have established a memorial fund to be used for the children's education. checks may be sent to the Margaret E. Garreau Memorial Fund, Bank of Rolling Meadows, 3250 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Schinkowsky said it is not known if the Garreaus carried life insurance policies.

"That's something an attorney will have to check into," he said.

Suburban digest

Frost hits; area spared snowfall

Northwest suburban residents were spared the light brush of snow that fell in some southern Chicago area communities during the weekend, but frost and cold weather did remind area residents that winter is approaching. As area temperatures dipped into the 20s Saturday and Sunday night up to 4 inches of snow whitened parts of Michigan. The forecast for the Northwest suburbs through Thursday shows no warming trend in sight. The U.S. Weather Service says temperatures will be below freezing at night rising to the mid or upper 40s during the day. There is a good possibility of showers Tuesday and Wednesday.

2 youths hurt in cycle-car crash

Two 12-year-old Schaumburg youths were reported in fair condition Sunday at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, following a motorcycle-car collision Friday night. Bruce Frisch, 20 E. Blackhawk Dr., and Robert Schoder, 204 E. Blackhawk Dr., were injured when the motorcycle they were riding eastbound on Nerge Road collided with a car driven by John S. Serpe, 334 Countryside Dr., Roselle. The westbound Serpe car was making a left turn from Nerge Road onto Larson Lane when the accident occurred. Police reported the collision happened 15 minutes after sunset and that the motorcycle involved did not have a headlight. No citations were issued in connection with the accident that took place at 6:25 p.m.

Sticker crackdown nets $5,600

A crackdown on Wheeling residents who failed to purchase their 1976 vehicle stickers netted the village $5,600 in revenue last week. Evelyn Diens, village clerk, Friday said residents who received delinquent notices have been "coming in quite rapidly. We've had quite a turnover." Wheeling village officials estimate they will collect "in excess of $20,000" during the vehicle sticker crackdown. Village officials said the program will cost $2,068.

Village may join dispatch network

Rolling Meadows is considering joining Northwest Central Dispatch System, a cooperative police communications network planning to begin offering services to local fire departments. Police Chief Lewis Case and Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty have recommended their departments join the Northwest system. Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove police participate in the police radio and dispatch network based in Arlington Heights. The center is planning to include fire departments. Participating communities share in the operation cost of the system and each town pays according to its population.

Center for seniors opens today

The Des Plaines Community Senior Citizen Center will open today to serve the city's nearly 7,000 senior citizens. The center, 1396 Thacker St., is being leased to the Des Plaines Park District for $1 per year. The former Lutheran church parsonage will provide health, housing, financial and employment assistance. It has rooms for television watching, crafts and reading, and a backyard with shuffleboard courts and picnic facilities.

Weekend busy for candidates

GOP warned of overconfidence

by WANDALYN RICE and STEVE BROWN

Northwest suburban Republicans heard warnings against overconfidence Saturday from their state and county political candidates during a series of GOP organization dinners.

During one of the busiest weekends of the fall campaign, Republican gubernatorial candidate James Thompson, appearing at parties for Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg township Republicans, said he is not going to slack off his campaign schedule.

At the same time, Thompson aides were distributing results of the latest poll taken for their organization which shows Thompson holding a lead of landslide proportions over Democrat Michael Howlett.

The poll gives Thompson a 58 to 26 per cent margin over Howlett, compared to 52 to 37 per cent in an earlier Thompson poll in August.

THOMPSON TOLD ABOUT 250 Republicans at the Wheeling Township GOP dinner, "Jim Thompson is going to watch this campaign for the next weeks with both eyes looking at my back. We don't want any last minute rushes by the opposition."

Thompson also warned, "There are still powerful enemies out there, and they are willing to do almost anything at this point to defeat me." He said he believes Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is particularly upset about the prospecet f his winning because of his record prosecuting political corruption cases in Chicago.

"It's not so much that the mayor minds a Repulican winning from time to time, but the fact that a man who stood up to him in his own city might win really has him upset," Thompson said.

Earlier in the evening Thompson told the Schaumburg organization that he needs the Republican vote in the suburbs, because "They may not count all of my votes down there in the city."

THOMPSON ALSO told the group that Downstate residents are wary of his Democratic opponent.

"One farmer Downstate told me that he was not going to let Dick Daley stuff a governor down his throat. He's right. We are going to have our own governor who is independent," he said.

In introducing Thompson at the Wheeling dinner, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, himself a candidate for reelection, warned Republicans to turn out the vote in the Northwest suburbs.

"It is a fact that in 1974 there were 100,000 fewer votes in the 12th District than in 1972, and I lost 90,000 of them," Crane said. "We Republicans have to face the fact that it was our people who sat it out."

SIMILAR PITCHES for a good voter turnout were given by State Comptroller George Lindberg, Atty. Gen. William Scott, Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey and State Sen. William Harris, the GOP candidate for secretary of state.

Entertainment at the three vents varied. The Palatine organization skipped the traditional dinner and opted for a Monte Carlo night.

The Schaumburg dinner featured a song-filled review sharing a number of the organization's faithful and Wheeling's activities included a barbershop quartet.

District PTA annual meeting set Wednesday

The 12th annual fall conference of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers Dist. 37 will be at 5:30 p.m., Wednesday at The Lancer Steak House Restaurant, 50 E. Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg.

Esther Cole, Arlington Heights PTA Council president, will welcome members and introduce Mable Veronda, ICPT first vice president, who will speak on "PTA Accomplishments." Margaret Wagner, ICPT second vice president, will speak on "PTA Goals."

The Arlington High School German band will entertain during the dinner.

Participaint in the conference will be PTA members from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates, Des Plaines, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg, Hanover Park and Prospect Heights.

Student congress set next weekend

Some 145 school students next weekend will participate in an invitational student congress sponsored by Arlington High School.

Foreign affairs, public welfare, economics and state and local affairs will be the topics of discussion at the legislative sessions planned from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Oct. 22 and from 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Oct. 23. The student congress will begin with a committee session at 6 p.m. Oct. 22 and will end with the presentation of awards at 4 p.m. Oct. 23.

Students from 11 high schools including Buffalo Grove, Forest View, Prospect and Arlington high schools will participate in the congress.

Interested persons may come to Arlington High School, 502 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights, to watch the student congressmen in action.

Elmhurst College homecoming slated

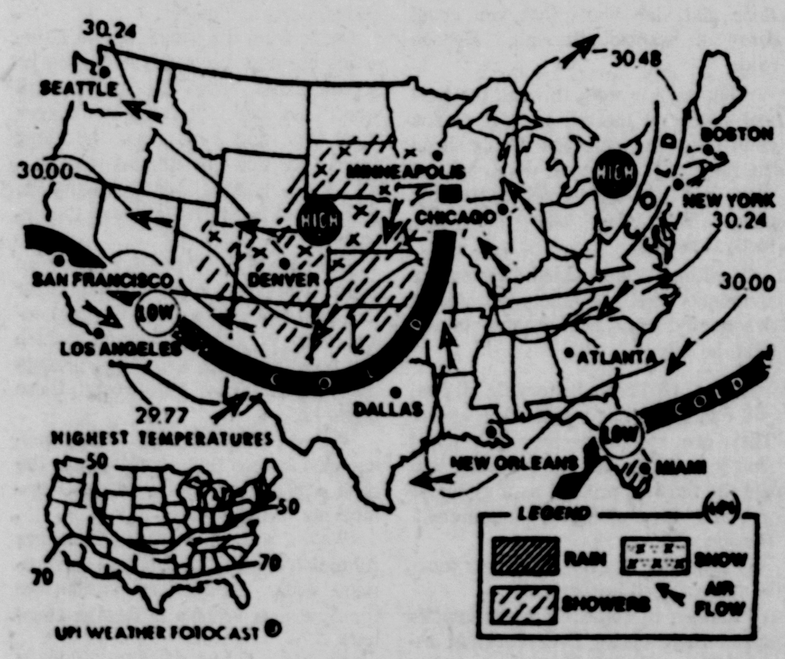

Elmhurst College invites alumni back to campus for an Oktoberfest homecoming Oct. 22 and 23.

Events include Friday and Saturday performances of the play "A Delicate Balance" at 8:15 p.m. in the Mill Theater, 253 Walter St., Elmhurst. Playwright Edward Albee will give a free lecture in the college's Union Building at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

The homecoming football game will start at 1:30 p.m. Saturday with the Elmhurst College Bluejays playing Illinois Benedictine College.

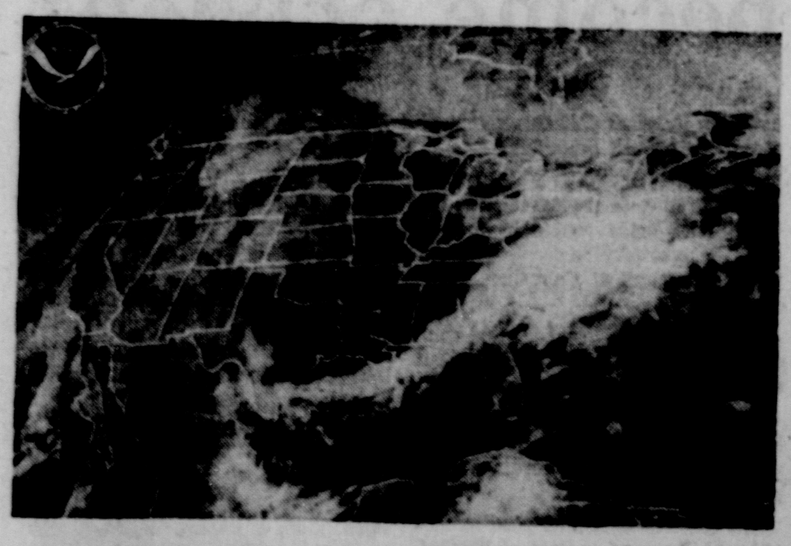

For information and reservation contact Ted Garriott, 279-4100, ext. 252.

Soyuz hits stormy lake; spacemen safe

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two cosmonauts who made the Soviet Union's first — and perhaps unplanned — water landing in the midst of a raging blizzard were reported safe and well Sunday at the end of their unsuccessful Soyuz 23 mission.

The pair, who failed to link up with the orbiting Salyut space station during their two-day flight, splashed down at night in a Kazakhstan lake during "heavy snowstorm condtions." It was the first reported time a manned Russian spacecraft has landed in water, raising speculation it was off course.

"The recovery and rescue complex, including airplanes, helicopters and floating means, ensured quick evacuation of the cosmonauts and the descent craft at night time and in heavy snowstorm conditions," the Soviet news agency Tass said.

The splashdown Saturday night came after cosmonauts Vyacheslav Zudov, 34, and Valeri Rozhdestvensky, 37, failed to link their Soyuz 23 space capsule with the Salyut 5 orbiting space laboratory due to a malfunction causing them to abort their mission.

Zudov and Rozhdestvensky, both space rookies, landed in Lake Tengiz 48 hours and six minutes after taking off from the Baikonur launch site in Soviet Central Asia.

Tass said the two cosmonauts were well, adding that "at all stages of the flight and after the landing, the crew acted in a confident way, efficiently discharging their duties."

Tass said the cosmonauts returned to the central Asian launch site at Baikonur Sunday after a stopover in the town of Arkalyk.

The news agency said the crew was given gifts of bread and salt, traditional good-luck signs after space flights, and they warmly thanked town residents who gathered at the airport.

Western experts speculated the Soyuz may have gone off course during re-entry.

If the Soviets were experimenting with a water landing, the experts said, it seemed unlikely they would choose the conditions at Lake Tengiz — pitch-darkness during a snowstorm.

The short flight was the second setback in the Soviet space program since April 1975, when a multistage rocket carrying two cosmonauts malfunctioned and the crew had to make an emergency landing in Siberian snow drifts.

At the launch on Thursday, Tass billed the Soyuz 23 flight as a continuation of the program to carry out "joint experiments" with Salyut 5.

But on Friday the expected docking was canceled because of "the off-design regime of the approach control system," according to the Soviet news agency.

It said the first approach to the orbiting space lab was made Friday night and that the cosmonauts did not stop working until five hours later. Tass did not mention if more than one approach had been attempted.

Then on Saturday Tass issued a terse announcement saying, "The crew is completing the mission and preparing to return to Earth."

That was the last word until a one-paragraph Tass story Sunday morning announced their return, amost 11 hours after the landing.

In a more detailed dispatch an hour later, Tass said the two men had returned to earth "after ending their work aboard the spaceship Soyuz 23." The craft landed 121 miles southwest of the city of Tselinograd at 8:46 p.m. Saturday (12:46 p.m. CDT).

The capsule's parachute system billowed out 4½ miles above the surface, Tass said, "and the descent craft splashed down in the Tengiz lake."

The flight of Soyuz 23 was almost an exact duplicate of Soyuz 15, launched in August 1974, except that Soyuz 15 did not land in the water. Both flights failed to dock.

China detonates underground A-blast

China successfully conducted an underground nuclear test Sunday, Radio Peking reported. The broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, did not say where the blast took place. Most of China's 19 previous nuclear tests, however, have been conducted at the Lop Nor site in remote Sinkiang province. The blast was China's third successful atomic test this year. The previous test, conducted last month, was an atmospheric explosion that generated extensive radioactive fallout.

Bombs exploded near Buenos Aires

Bombs exploded at two military installations Saturday night and Sunday in what military sources said was part of a guerrilla offensive on the 31st anniversary of Juan D. Peron's rise to power. One person died and 50 were injured in explosions at a naval arsenal and an army officers club. A naval communique said one sailor was killed and three were injured in an explosion in a navy arsenal in Zarate, 56 miles north of Buenos Aires. A second explosion at midnight went off in the movie theater of the Circulo Militar officers club in Buenos Aires.

IRA claims Britain losing war

The Irish Republicn Army's chief political spokesman said Sunday Britain is losing the war in Northern Ireland, but the outlawed guerrilla group is willing to consider truce negotiations. In Northern Ireland Sunday night, the Provisional IRA said three of its members had been killed by the premature explosion of two bombs in the city's gas works Saturday night. The bombs was aimed at a British army post, a statement said. Firemen, who have boycotted bomb-caused fires to enforce a claim for "danger money," turned out to battle what was called the most spectacular blaze in seven years of terrorist bombings and arson.

Throngs protest against Mao's widow

More than a million people demonstrated in the Shanghai area Sunday against the widow of Mao Tse-tung and three other radicals purged from the Communist party leadership, an American visitor to the city said. It was the third straight day that huge rallies have been staged in China's largest city to denounce Madame Mao, or Chiang Ching, and Chang Chun-chiao, Wang Hung-wen and Yao-Wen-yuan — the trio known as the "Shanghai Mafia." The visitor told UPI by telephone that Sunday's demonstration was the biggest so far. "There were tens of thousands of people everywhere we went in the city. Our guides told us there were more than a million people participating in the dmonstrations Sunday," he said.

Cargo ship lost in Bermuda Triangle

A Panamanian cargo ship with 37 crew members aboard is missing and feared sunk in an area of the Atlantic Ocean widely known as the "Bermuda Triangle," a Coast Guard spokesman said Sunday. The spokesman said the freighter "Sylvia L. Ossa," enroute from Brazil to Philadelphia, was last heard from at 4 p.m. CDT Wednesday when it radioed a report that gale force winds had forced it to reduce speed. Coast Guard planes Sunday located an overturned life boat with the markings, "Sylvia No. 6 - Panama" and an oil slick about 160 miles due west of Bermuda and 420 miles southeast of Elizabeth City, N.C.

Ford to press for park program approval

President Ford will press Congress to pass his $1.5 billion park program if re-elected, a top Interior Department official says, and it was worth $150,000 to make the presidential announcement at Yellowstone National Park. "All comments of those who said they would never see (the program) again are wrong," said Assistant Secretary Nathaniel Reed. "The only criticism I've heard is about the timing, which I warned the President about. And he said it didn't bother him. "He's absolutely determined to go ahead if he's re-elected," Reed said in an interview.

Dogs enter hunt for lost boy, 4

A special team of German shepherd "sniffer" dogs flown in from Seattle, Wash., searched Wyoming's Big Horn Mountain foothills Sunday for a mute, nearly blind 4-year-old boy who wandered from his home six days earlier. Five members of the Search and Rescue Dogs Association of Seattle brought three "sniffer" dogs to the area in an attempt to pick up the scent of Ronnie Rea, lost since Monday in the sagebrush-covered foothills near his farm home south of Ten Sleep. An Air Force C-130 transport plane was diverted from Little Rock, Ark., to Alaska to carry the dogs and trainers to the Washakie County Airport at Worland late Saturday.

Quake jolts area around Los Angeles

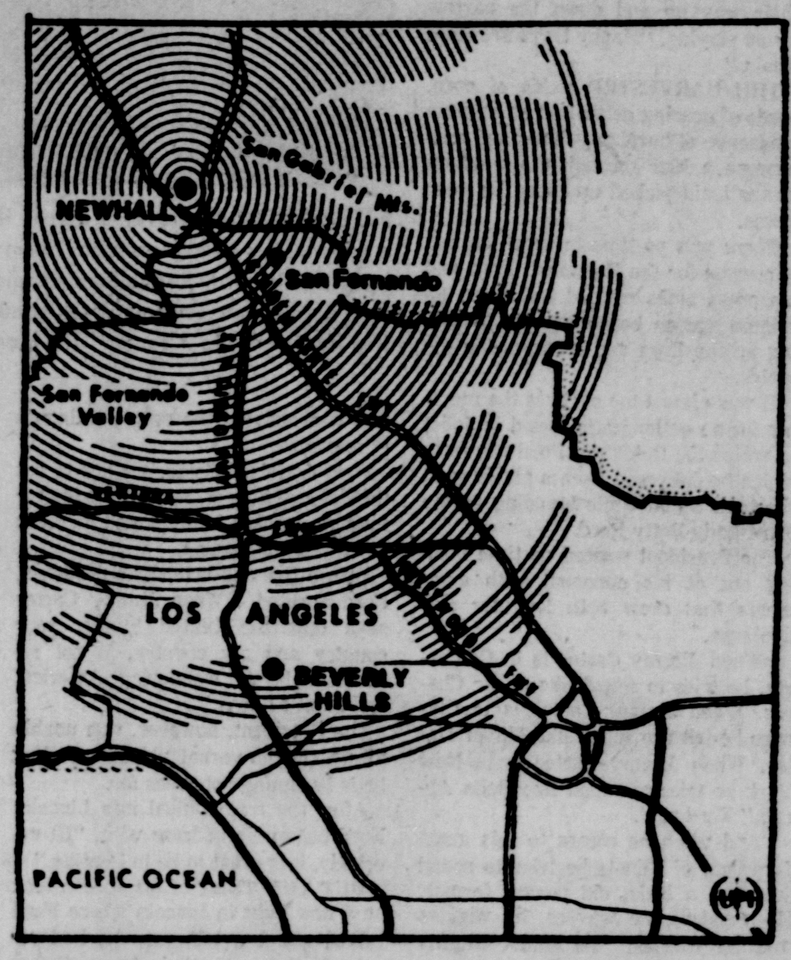

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A short but sharp earthquake centered in the mountain canyons north of town shook much of the metropolitan area Saturday night, but there were no reports of injuries or major damage.

A spokesman at the Cal Tech Seismology Laboratory said the epicenter of the quake, which hit at 10:40 p.m. and registered 4.0 on the Richter Scale, was eight miles northeast of Newhall in the San Gabriel Mountains.

The quake was strongest in the Newhall-Saugus area which was hit hard by the Sylmar earthquake in 1971.

One resident of Newhall reported hearing a loud bang followed by a sharp shake. Another resident said the jolt was followed by a pause and slow roll lasting about four seconds.

Residents of the San Fernando and San Gabriel valleys, Beverly Hills and other suburban areas also felt the shock briefly.

A SHORT BUT sharp earthquake centered in the mountain canyons north of Los Angeles shook much of the metropolitan area Sunday. There were no reports of injuries or major damage.

Turnout for flu shots disappoints

by United Press International

A "disappointing" number of Allegheny County, Pa., residents turned out for free swine flu shots Sunday on the first day of local immunizations since the vaccination scare began in Pittsburgh a week ago following the deaths of three aged recipients.

The 17,074 persons immunized represented less than 20 per cent of the number Allegheny County Health Director Dr. Frank B. Clack estimated would turn out for the shots Sunday.

"I would say the turnout is a little disappointing," he said. He said he had "hoped" for 100,000 immunizations on the first day of flu shots for non-high risk persons in the general public.

"The negative publicity was certainly one factor in this turnout," he said. Another was the weather in the area, where temperatures hovered just above 40 degrees all afternoon, he said.

The county's program inoculated 25,000 elderly in three days before Clack halted it Tuesday pending a federal investigation that eventually cleared the vaccine and the vaccination technique in the deaths.

Across the United States at flu shot clinics, numbers were being watched closely to see whether President Ford's $135 million program to protect Americans against a feared outbreak this winter suffered a setback.

Robert H. Snyder, coordinator of Sunday's project in Allegheny County, said the county had been prepared to immunize 100,000 persons at 17 district neighborhood health centers. The county has 1.5 million citizens, but only an estimated 150,000 were eligible for the shots Sunday.

"If 100,000 would have turned out, it would have been a screaming success," Snyder said. "But I'm surprised at the turnout. I thought everyone would just watch and wait. We're happy with what turned out."

The county's immunization program for the aged and ill resumes Monday with special steps taken to minimize stressful situations for aged recipients, particularly potential heart attack victims.

Clack believes stress may have triggered coronary seizures in the three Pittsburgh victims, who were immunized at the same time at the same county clinic last Monday and died hours later.

The Federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has ruled out any connection between the deaths nationwide of 35 persons within 48 hours of their inoculations and the vaccine or the way it was administered.

The CDC maintains that those aged or ill recipients — most of whom died of heart attacks — merely represent the normal death rate among the one million elderly who have been inoculated since the government's program began Oct. 1.

In a related development, Army officials at Ft. Knox, Ky., announced that recruits who receive inoculations will get the following day off. The decision was prompted by a fever that developed in 96 of 5,400 trainees who were immunized and then underwent normal activities.

They were hospitalized at Ireland Army Hospital with temperatures in excess of 101.

CDC spokesman predicted the inoculation program would not be completed by the year's end. More than 70 million doses will be handed to state health authorities by November.

New look at JFK, King killings

Author views way to solve crimes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The writer of a book about assassin James Earl Ray says a House panel should focus on motives rather than "mechanics" when it takes a new look into the slayings of Martin Luther King Jr. and President John F. Kennedy.

The committee, chaired by Rep. Thomas Downing, D-Va., will study unpursued leads in the two cases that turned up during congressional investigations into the U.S. intelligence community.

Pennsylvania attorney Richard Sprague, who prosecuted former United Mine Workers president W. A. "Tony" Boyle for murder, will conduct the reopened probe. The new investigation could last up to two years.

George McMillan, a writer who has investigated both murders, told UPI in an interview he doubts whether the new congressional investigation will turn up significant developments or shake the lone assassin theories of each.

"The way to solve these crimes," McMillan said, "is not to get bogged down in ballistics and mechanics. The way to solve them is to discover a motive in the assassinations.

"When I was working on the King assassination, I put a sign on my desk: 'The real question is not how, but why?' "

McMillan spent seven years researching and writing "The Making of an Assassin," a book coming out this week on Ray and the King assassination.

During his investigation McMillan got to know Ray's father and brothers. Interviewed his prison mates and undertook a painstaking search of relevant documents, affidavits and family history.

He never managed to interview Ray, who pleaded guilty to the crime and was sentenced to 99 years in prison.

McMillan says Ray:

- Was passionately political; admired the Nazis; at one time carried a picture of Hitler in his wallet.
- Told his brothers at a 1968 Chicago reunion after escaping from jail that he was going to kill King. Before the assassination, he called his brother, Jerry, in Chicago to say: "Big Nigger has had it."
- Viewed the projected assassination as a way of forcing American politics into a more conservative mold, with himself as a hero.
- Planned his escape carefully, evading the police who were on his trail within 15 minutes of the crime, escaping to Canada, where he arranged for a Canadian passport, and contemplating flight to Rhodesia or Angola.

The Select Committee on Assassinations holds its next formal session Nov. 15.

Wendy Yoshimura will go on trial today in Oakland

People

- Wendy Yoshimura, a tiny Japanese-American artist who linked her destiny with Patricia Hearst in a year-long underground fight from the law, goes on trial in Oakland today on charges linking her to a Berkeley terrorist group's attempt to bomb a college campus building. Wendy — captured 13 months ago with Miss Hearst in the San Francisco apartment they shared — is currently free on $25,000 bail collected from Japanese-American sympathizers.
- The Detroit News reported Sunday that Rep. Donald Riegle Jr., D-Mich., had an affair with a staff worker in 1969 during which their intimate conversations, including his dreams of the presidency, were taped with mutual consent. The copyrighted story said Riegle, a Flint, Mich., congressman now running for the Senate, approved of the recordings by a woman identified only as "Dorothy." He later tried and failed to gain possession of the tapes, the News said. The story attributed nothing illegal to Riegle or his friends.
- Mike Erickson, 26, who is studying theatrical arts at the University of Minnesota, set out from Virginia Beach, Va. on June 15 in an ecology experiment to cross the country with his "Hoky" carpet sweeper to find out what Americans throw onto their highways. He expects to complete his trip next Wednesday in San Francisco. He found dead animals in Utah and full whisky bottles in Nevada.
- Actor Burt Reynolds, 40, spent a "comfortable" night at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center where he was admitted after complaining of chest pains. A hospital spokesman said Sunday the actor, who was taken to the hospital Saturday night, was still under observation in the cardiac care unit. No date has been set for his release.

Ford steps up attack in harshly personal campaign

by HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI—President Ford has turned more aggressive in the closing days of the 1976 campaign.

Ford's stepped up attack, both in words and in presidential activities that many observers feel are politically motivated, comes at a time when Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter has been advised to tone down his attack.

Both candidates have become harshly personal, focusing on differences between themselves perhaps even more than on differences over issues.

On Saturday, Carter sent Ford a telegram demanding that the President stop making "misleading and erroneous" claims about him. Ford fired back a reply saying he didn't know whether Carter was repudiating previous positions or denying he took them in the first place.

Ford also has started adopting some of GOP running mate Robert Dole's words and style, including the charge that Carter would "say anything anywhere to get elected" and that he "wanders, wavers, wiggles and waffles" on the issues.

Most observers agree Carter triumphed over Ford in the last debate when, as one wag put it, Ford "freed Poland."

The President's comment that Eastern Europe was not Soviet-dominated threw his campaign for a loop. Carter, riding a campaign crest, said Ford had been "brainwashed" during a visit to Poland and his remarks were "a disgrace."

It took six days for Ford to admit his mistake. But that move, when it came, was the better part of valor and got him back on the track.

To recoup, Ford made a series of rapid fire decisions carrying overtones of pure politics even though he "categorically denied" such motives.

Apparently trying to boost his standing with Jewish voters, Ford secretly approved the sale to Israel of four advance items — including some not yet even developed — from the U.S. defense arsenal.

In doing so he bypassed the State Department and Defense Department, which had questioned Israel's shopping list.

Ford said he acted as "commander in chief." He indicated that his secrecy — the arms package was first announced in Tel Aviv — was designed to avoid "leaks," something which struck observers as being reminiscent of the Nixon and Johnson years.

Ford also issued an executive order approving a 80 per cent increase in wheat price supports even though Agriculture Department experts said there was no economic justification for the hike. A couple of days later, on the hustings in the Iowa Farm Belt, he accused Carter of wanting the government to "meddle" in farmer's affairs.

The President's fortunes rose considerably when Special Prosecuter Charles Ruff cleared him of any financial wrongdoing in his past congressional campaigns. He held the first presidential news conference televised by all the networks since February and showed himself to have new confidence.

Ford and his strategists feel he has turned the corner again in a campaign marked by ups and downs and no clear path to victory for either candidate.

On the road, Ford accused Carter of demagoguery and of having many faces. At the news conference and in speeches he also charged that Carter "slandered" the United States by saying its respect and reputation in the world had dimmed.

For the next few days Ford will conduct a White House and Rose Garden campaign, preparing for his final debate showdown with Carter in Williamsburg, Va. on Friday.

The latest Gallup Poll shows Carter ahead by six points, but Ford has been steadily gaining after starting with a 20-point deficit.

Whistle stop train tour

Ford speaks to rural Illinois

by DIANE MERMIGAS

They brought big smiles and small American flags, and they displayed both eagerly as "The Honest Abe" rolled slowly down the tracks parting the southern Illinois cornfields.

The people of the prairie huddled close to the train for a glompse of the only U.S. President who might ever pass through their farmlands and small towns.

During his nine-hour whistle stop train tour Saturday, Gerald Ford reassured farmers of helpful legislation coming in the future, reiterated the accomplishments of his administration and continued his slashing attacks on presidential opponent Jimmy Carter.

Farmers in overalls, kids on minibikes and older people dressed in their Sunday best waited along the roadside and at crossings to see the eight-car Amtrak shuttle between Joliet, Pontiac, Bloomington, Lincoln, Springfield, Carlinville and Alton.

MANY SAID THEY had come to see the President of the United States and not Gerald Ford, the candidate.

Some agonized over the grain embargoes of the past three years and the recent resignation of Sec. of Agriculture Earl Butz.

Others said the extension of the farmers' loan rates and the limiting of cattle imports during the past week helped to smooth out some rough spots for farmers.

Many of the rural Americans who greeted the President in the chill of Illinois autumn said they would vote for Ford Nov. 2 because voting Republican is a tradition in the wheat-threshing seat of the state and because Ford had bothered to visit their home.

IT WAS JUST WHAT the President's strategy men were seeking in the quick run across Illinois — to reinforce his support there and to stimulate voters to go to the polls on election day.

The President's visit also seemed like a holiday for people along the route. Stores were closed, streets were blocked, secret service men peered from the tops of buildings and from helicopters. Train stations were decorated with banners, and homemade signs read "Boogie with Betty," "We're for Ford" and "Ethnics for Ford."

Even on the train, the atmosphere was electric. Batteries of state and White House press filled the cars to capacity — lugging their television and radio equipment on and off the train at each stop, typing their stories on portable typewriters at their seats, calling information to their home bases on special train phones and editing their tapes.

There was a friendly mingling of politicians and the press on board as cigaret smoke swirled around the heads of musicians who squeezed their way up and down the narrow aisles playing, "Happy Days are Here Again."

THE HARVESTED fields of corn, herds of grazing cattle and an autumn landscape of burning yellows and reds became a blur through the windows as the train picked up speed between towns.

There was no time to spare on this trip, even for the President. Ford and his press aides revised his short, 10-minute speech between stops, polishing up the lines and reorganizing the topics.

It was almost too early in the morning for an enthusiastic crowd in Joliet to notice the fluidity of Ford's speech, which he delivered from a platform at the train's end while standing beside First Lady Betty Ford.

The President wasted no time lashing out at his opponent with comments that drew both laughter and applause.

"When Jimmy Carter is in California, he tries to sound like Cesar Chavez. When Jimmy Carter is in Chicago he tries to sound like Mayor Daley. When Jimmy Carter is in New York he tries to sound like Bella Abzug," Ford said.

"And when he comes to this great farmland of Illinois he tries to sound just like a little, old peanut farmer. He wanders, he wavers, he wiggles and he waffles," he said. "Jimmy Carter will say anything anywhere to be President of the United States."

BY THE TIME "The Honest Abe" pulled into Pontiac, Republican gubernatorial candidate James Thompson, who was traveling with the President, had his shirt sleeves rolled up and was rallying the people in bursts of applause.

Ford criticized Carter's plans to cut the defense budget, increase taxes for medium income families and increase government spending.

Like a fire and brimstone preacher, Ford shouted, "When Jimmy Carter says that the United States, your country and my country, is not respected, he is slandering America, and I don't like it."

The President, however, was unable to control the verbal "bloopers," that he is becoming notorious for.

After the train pulled into Lincoln, Ford began his address with, "Hi everbody, it is great to be in Pontiac."

BUT THE TEXT of his speech took on a new light in Lincoln where Ford talked about a telegram he had received that morning from Carter which accused the President of misrepresenting the former Georgia governor's position on taxes, government spending and the defense budget.

Ford brightened with the opportunity to match the attack, and he asserted that Carter's stands had been documented by the press during the past year and a half.

"We have restored trust in the White House, we have turned the economy around . . . we have peace," the President said.

Then Ford revived some of the dialog he has used in recent debates with Carter. Many in the crowds seemed to consider it a case of push and shove American politics.

Neither the speech or the reaction of the crowds altered much in the visits that followed. Ford stepped down from the train platform after each speech to wander through the crowds.

U.S. SEN. Charles Percy, R-Ill.; incumbent state comptroller George Lindberg; Thompson and other state officials mingled with the crowds ahead of Ford, urging people to shake hands and talk to the President.

Even showpeople like Chuck Connors and Peter Graves were part of the presidential entourage.

Like all shows, this one had an ending too.

By the time the train pulled into Alton, it was behind schedule and the smell of dinner cooking on the stove filled the air as the sky grew dark.

Even the President admitted, after fumbling over a few more words in an attempt to quote Teddy Roosevelt, "It has been a long day."

And after a final rally in St. Louis, a weary Ford and a faithful handful of Washington press representatives jetted back to the nation's capital to face the remaining 16 days in an intensifying presidential race.

People gathered to see and hear the President

The people who came out to see President Ford Saturday were candid in their remarks about his visit to Illinois and his plea for their support at the polls Nov. 2.

"I think he's done what he wanted to do on this trip and that's reinforce the people's belief in him. There were a lot more people having questions about how they would vote this year compared to past years, even though this is a Republican stronghold. But I think many of them have made up their minds now," said Mary Patterson, Lincoln.

"It's good to see this kind of campaigning again — out among the people, especially in the small towns," said Karl Newton, a native of Lincoln.

"I WAS JUST my son's age when I remember seeing Eisenhower come through here on a whistle stop train like this. It's a marvelous memory to have when you're older," he said.

"In other years the people of Lincoln have voted for faces they saw on the television or for words they read in the newspapers. This year they will vote for the man whose hand they shook," Newton said.

Many people were disappointed because they had waited all morning and were unable to see the President or hear his speech.

"But, we're not ready to stop eating pineapple for peanuts yet," one Bloomington woman quipped, referring to Republican vice presidential candidate Robert Dole.

"I'm going to vote for Carter myself, but I was out there this morning in Pontiac to be one of the first ones that the President shook hands with, because he is still the President," said Gregg Durham, Bloomington.

"You can't help but get caught up in this excitement. It's one of the few times ever that Washington brings its show to the small towns of America," he said.

Metropolitan briefs

Call in suggestions on transportation

Suggestions for how tax money should be spent to improve transportation in the Chicago metropolitan area may be called in to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission by Friday on a Transportation Proposals Hot Line. The 24-hour hot line number is 648-0207. The proposals will be used by the transportation proposals task force of NIPC which is preparing a transportation plan for the metropolitan area for the year 2000.

Officials to tour sewer plant

Public works officials from the Northwest suburbs will tour the John E. Egan Water Reclamation Plant in Schaumburg Thursday. The tour of the $43 million installation is part of an effort by the Northwest Municipal Conference to encourage conservation of water resources in the area. The facility is the world's most automated sewage treatment plant.

Illinois briefs

Mondale denies ever taking gifts

Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale said in Chicago Sunday he has never accepted gifts or trips from special interest groups and denied a $5,000 campaign contribution from milk producers had influenced his Senate votes. Mondale also said he opposes wage-price controls for now and that a better way to keep prices down is through selective presidential "jawboning." Asked on CBS' Face the Nation if he had taken any trips aboard corporate aircraft or been treated to golf outings or the like, as Jimmy Carter and President Ford have acknowledged, the Minnesota senator replied: "I've gone out to dinner with friends but I have not done that sort of thing."

Campaigning in Rockford, later Sunday, Mondale sharpened his attack on the Republican farm record and said GOP vice presidential candidate Robert Dole once supported a Nixon administration plan to abolish the Agriculture Dept. as now constituted. He denied Dole's allegation during their debate last Friday that Jimmy Carter favored abolition of the Agriculture Dept.

Carter, Thompson ahead in polls

Thanks to a big push from Chicago voters, Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter held a 9.2 percentage lead over President Ford in Illinois, a straw poll indicated Sunday. In the other big race in the state, the poll had Republican gubernatorial nominee James Thompson comfortably ahead of his Democratic opponent Michael Howlett, 60.9 per cent to 39.1.

Carter and Howlett amassed big leads, as expected, in traditionally Democratic Chicago. Carter drew 1,372 votes or 76.5 per cent of the total, to 422 and 23.5 per cent for Ford. Ford led in the suburbs with 1,136 votes and 59.4 of the total to 776 votes and 40.6 per cent for Carter. The candidates were separated by a single percentage point in Downstate returns with Ford leading 50.5 per cent to 49.5 The overall total showed Carter ahead, 3,316 to 2,752 and 54.6 per cent to 45.4 per cent.

THOUGHTS ON A MATTRESS
One Act Play entitled
"Saga of the Upholstered Board"
Scene: Office of the Sales Manager of a major mattress manufacturing company.
Sales Manager: What is this terrific new idea of yours?
Product Engineer: It's a new mattress with a board in the middle. It makes the mattress harder than — I mean it makes it very hard.
Sales Manager: Sounds good. We could call it the "Board-O-Pedic." The public wants hard mattresses today. We've been spending enough money telling them this for the last ten years.
Product Engineer: We do use a little foam padding, but with the board in the middle, you hardly feel the padding.
Sales Manager: Have you tried it yourself?
Product Engineer: Sure! I used it for three nights and it almost killed me. I hardly slept a wink. But it's harder than any of our competitors are making so it should sell.
Sales Manager: Maybe we should call it the "Upholstered Board?"
Product Manager: I don't know — there's a little company called Schaumburg Mattress Factory that makes fun of these hard mattresses. They tell their customers they shouldn't sleep on these "Upholstered Boards."
Sales Manager: How do you know so much about the Schaumburg Mattress Factory?
Product Engineer: That's where I bought my mattress and man, is it comfortable!!!
Exit: Product Engineer.

'Parking lot of interest to developers'

Eight groups of developers have shown a strong interest in purchasing the village's parking lot on Sigwalt Street between Dunton and Vail avenues to build a multilevel shopping plaza and office building, Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson said.

Because of the interest in the property, Hanson tonight will recommend that the village board approve having soil borings conducted on the property.

The cost of the soil borings is estimated at $3,000.

The board meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The board voted in August to sell the parking lot so a shopping center may be built adjacent to the 500-car parking garage plananed for the northeast corner of Vail Avenue and Sigwalt Street. Since then, village officials have met with several groups of developers who are interested in building the two projects.

Hanson said the soil borings are necessary to determine how large a building the parking lot site can support.

Street repaving work begins today

The Village of Arlington Heights will begin repaving sections of 29 streets today.

The public works department announced the repaving will begin on the south end of the village and will be completed within three weeks.

Traffic lanes half the width of the street will remain open to minimize inconvenience. Barricade warnings will be placed on streets when wet emulsion is applied.

Lions garage sale

The Arlington Heights Lions Club will sponsor a garage sale Oct. 23 at Dryden Avenue and Kensington Road.

The sale, which starts at 9:30 a.m. and lasts all day, is a fund-raising project to finance programs and services for the visually handicapped.

Parking plan revised to aid town

Revised parking requirements designed to encourage development of Arlington Heights' central business district have been drawn up by the planning department.

The proposed changes will be submitted to the plan commission at a public hearing Oct. 27. If approved, they will be sent to the village board for adoption.

Real estate developers, merchants and local officials agree current requirements have stifled growth downtown.

"THE OVERLY restrictive parking requirements have stood in the way of downtown development in Arlington Heights," said Greg Heine, vice president of the Crane Construction Co., Chicago.

His company is one of several which have expressed interest in developing a proposed nine-story office complex-shopping mall and parking garage in the central business district.

The changes proposed by the planning department affect parking requirements for new retail stores and banks, offices, medical buildings, restaurants, furniture and appliance stores and multifamily dwellings.

The most drastic modifications, however, are suggested for retail stores, banks and offices. Developers currently must provide one parking space for every 300 square feet of first floor store and bank space and one space for every 500 square feet of first floor office space.

THE NEW RULES would eliminate parking space requirements for stores, banks and offices under 1,500 square feet and would lessen the number of spaces needed for establishments exceeding that.

For example, one space would be required for every 500 square feet of first floor store and bank space exceeding 1,500 square feet, and one space for every 600 square feet of first floor office space exceeding 1,500 square feet.

Village Planner Joseph Kesler estimated 700 spaces would be needed for the office complex-shopping mall under the current requirements, a number he said that would scare away potential developers.

"These proposed requirements would only be the minimum," he said. "Nothing would stop a builder from putting in more spaces, and a developer usually will do what is needed to make the venture successful."

EARL JOHNSON, executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce, predicted a positive reaction to the proposal.

"This is a step in the right direction," he said. "Merchants are interested in seeing increased consumer traffic downtown.

"I don't look for anything specific in the way of drastic changes (proposed at the Oct. 27 open meeting)," Johnson said. "As long as the whole program tends toward increasing the number of customers they'll be for it."

ELISE SCHIEFER ponders the last 98 years while sitting near a still-working spinning wheel in her home. "Life," she said, "is what you make out of it. You have to forget the bad times. After the rain comes the sun out again. I always remember that."

She's pretty–just ask

At 98, Elise Schiefer plans her 100th birthday

by NANCY GOTLER

Just ask Elise Schiefer about the German town where she was born almost 98 years ago and she'll tell you, "It's where the pretty girls come from. Just look me over."

She has outlived her husband, her oldest child and most of her generation, but Mrs. Schiefer still has a sense of humor, a sharp wit and definite opinions.

She is up at 6:30 every morning to cook breakfast for her son, Elmer, then goes back to bed for another hour and spends the day cleaning their four-bedroom house at 311 N. Derbyshire Ave., Arlington Heights.

ANYONE WHO suggests she lives with her unmarried son, however, will quickly be corrected. "He lives with me," she insists, "I don't live with him."

She will be 98 on Nov. 16, but with characteristic optimism is already planning how to celebrate her 100th birthday.

Keeping busy has been a lifetime career for her. She followed her husband to the U.S. from Germany in 1910 when she was 31.

Her youngest child, Elmer, was born in 1916 in Elmhurst, which then was a bustling town of 1,000.

WHEN HER husband died in 1922, she returned to her beloved Germany with her four young children, but found the country devastated by World War I and left five months later.

Since then, she has lived in Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin and Ohio and says she has visited every state but California, Alaska and Hawaii.

She is the oldest member of the Arlington Heights Over 50 club, which she joined after moving to the village eight years ago because, "I like to have fun. I like a good laugh. Whenever I come to a new place I make myself known."

She attributes her longevity and good health to a healthy attitude toward life and taking everything in moderation.

She spoke no English when she first arrived in the U.S. and her speech is still heavily accented and sprinkled with German words and phrases.

SHE REMAINS interested in politics and says, "I voted in every election since 1920."

During her lifetime people have become more unfriendly and isolated, she said. "I don't know any of my neighbors. They never introduce themselves. Everybody is too busy. They are too worried about making money. I think it would be better if they would make less money and enjoy life more."

She is critical of what she called a lack of public transportation in the village. "I have to depend on my friends and I don't like that. I like to go out."

Meanwhile, between cooking big pots of sauerkraut and cleaning, Mrs. Schiefer looks toward the future. "Why not? I plan to live a long time."

Carter campaigners won't concede suburbs to GOP

by STEVE BROWN

The leaders of Democrat Jimmy Carter's Illinois campaign say they are not conceding any region of the state to the opposition, not even the traditionally Republican Cook County suburbs.

Paul Sullivan and the Rev. James Wall sketched plans for the final two weeks of Carter's Illinois campaign during a breakfast meeting with a small group of suburban political writers.

Sullivan clarified his published comments that Carter "can't win" in the suburbs.

The pair said the Carter stratagem includes:

- Bringing the candidate to the suburbs and Downstate Illinois for one day of campaigning before Nov. 2.
- Unveiling a "high visibility" Carter campaign in some of Chicago's predominantly black wards to augment the Daley machine effort.
- Using handwritten postcards to convince uncommitted voters to support Carter.
- Keeping peace between the rival factions of the Democratic Party in Illinois.

Sullivan is a newcomer to both the Carter campaign and Illinois, but Wall, an independent Democrat from DuPage County, deftly handled Carter's primary election victory and is now on a leave of absence from his post as editor of the Christian Century magazine to coordinate campaign activities.

Sullivan, a former campaign staffer in U.S. Rep. Morris K. Udall's campaign, took over the Illinois Carter effort after the Georgian won the Democratic nomination.

He noted that Carter's campaign in Illinois has the largest budget per electoral vote of any state in the nation. He also described the Carter field office and organization around the state as the largest in the country.

SULLIVAN SAID his $200,000 campaign budget does not include the cost of media advertising or literature which is coordinated by Carter national campaign headquarters in Atlanta.

"But $200,000 is mightly slim, considering McGovern spent $800,000 in Illinois in 1972," he said, adding that he believes Carter's advisers should have set aside more of the $20.5 million in federal campaign funds allocated for the campaign to state operations.

Sullivan was unable to provide any details about the plans to bring the Democrat to the suburbs.

He said that while he has a firm commitment to bring Carter to Illinois for one more day before Nov. 2, he cannot name a date now. He said the tentative plans now call for Carter to make both suburban and downstate appearances on that day. The Democrat has not campaigned in the suburbs since receiving the presidential nomination, except for a brief rally in Evergreen Park Sept. 9.

SULLIVAN ATTEMPTED to back away from a comment he made several weeks ago in which he flatly stated that Carter could not win in suburban Cook County.

"We are not conceding any part of the state," he said. He outlined the "obvious" strategy of trying to "do well" in downstate areas, "cut losses" in the suburbs and get the biggest vote possible from the Chicago Democratic organization.

In an attempt to counter voter apathy, Sullivan said, Carter volunteers are writing personal cards to undecided voters.

Sullivan and Wall both downplayed the reports of friction between Carter's campaign and the usually rival factions of the Democratic Party headed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and lame duck Gov. Daniel Walker. Both Daley and Walker have appeared with Carter at campaign rallies, but Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate has missed several events.

SULLIVAN SAID Carter is not trying to snub Howlett. He added that he does not believe published poll results showing Howlett trailing Republican James R. Thompson, will hurt the Carter effort here.

"The polls show we are winning, I don't believe in coattails or reverse coattails I don't think there is a problem," Sullivan added.

He said that the Carter campaign, while maintaining a separate operation and storefront offices around the state is coordinating activities and information with other candidates.

He explained the reason for separate storefront offices for the Carter-Mondale campaign was to establish a stronger presidential presence in the state.

THERE HAVE BEEN suggestions that Carter is attempting to avoid intraparty fueds in the state. While downplaying the dissension between factions like Walker and Daley, Sullivan told The Herald his newness in the state does have at least one advantage.

"I'm independent; I'm here to run the Carter campaign, I am not a Daley man, I'm not a Walker man, so it helps," he said.

Jack Ford to appear at GOP rally tonight

Jack Ford, the son of President Ford, will join Cook County Republicans for a rally tonight at the Exel Inn in Rosemont.

The rally, which is set to begin at 7 p.m., will feature practically every GOP leader in the state, according to Cook County Republican Chairman Harold Tyrrell.

The entire statewide Republican ticket, headed by gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson, will be on hand along with congressional, legislative and Cook County candidates.

The President's son is a replacement for First Lady Betty Ford, who had to cancel her appearance at the rally last week.

The public is invited to attend the event. There is no admission charge and free parking, according to the organizers.

Campaign activities

A number of other events featuring candidates also are scheduled this week as the campaign swings into the final two weeks.

All of the candidates for statewide office will appear at a forum Tuesday morning at the Sheraton Oak Brook. Included in the forum will be both candidates for governor, Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett and James R. Thompson.

Condominium owners and the Illinois Publis Action Council will hold a candidates' night for Illinois General Assembly candidates from the 3rd Legislative District at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Dunbar Lakes Clubhouse, Plum Grove Road betewen Higgins and Schaumburg roads, Schaumburg.

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane and State Comptroller George Lindberg wll speak Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization meeting, 600 S. See Gwun, Mount Prospect.

Republican Roger Keats said he will debate one of his two Democratic opponents from the 1st Legislative District at 9:15 a.m. at New Trier West High School.

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, will sponsor a fund-raising auction Sunday at the Maryville Academy gymnasium from 2 to 7 p.m.

The Palatine Township Democratic Club will host a wine, beer and cheese party honoring Democrat William Sarto, of Elgin, a candidate for the Illinois House from the 2nd Legislative District.

The event will be from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the club's headquarters, 230 E. Hicks Pl., Palatine. The public is invited to attend.

Macdonald on Ford Panel

Candidates at all levels of the tickets have drawn the support of local residents to help with their campaign in the Northwest suburbs and beyond.

State Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, has been asked by the President Ford campaign committee to be co-chairman of the Republican Legislators for Ford committee in Illinois.

Mrs. Macdonald will serve along with State Rep. Arthur Telscer and will be planning activities involving other members of the Illinois General Assembly to work on the President's behalf.

You were sharp tonight, senator!

The way we see it

Dole, Mondale 'spearcarriers'

Friday's debate between Senators Robert Dole and Walter Mondale proved that the two men are adequate spearcarriers for their presidential running mates, but it demonstrated little else.

Except for a few glimpses of Dole's reputedly sharp tongue and Mondale's assesertion that the Kansas Republican had earned his reputation as a hatchet man, the 75-minute exercise was generally devoid of highlights.

Viewers, however, did get an opportunity to see the two men, who are stil relatively unknown nationally, express themselves on major issues.

Given recent history, the nation should pay close attention to the men who are seeking the vice presidency.

Dole and Mondale both proved to be articulate spokesmen for their running mates' positions and their parties positions. Both also stated they would be given new and significant tasks if they are elected.

If that is the case, it will be refreshing. Too many good leaders have been wasted by being relegated to this largely ceremonial position.

Possibly the fact that Mondale and Dole staged this debate, which may have been the frst ever between vice presidential candidates, can be viewed as a sign that there will be a change in that office.

Mondale's prediction that he will head a federal task force on crime could prove significant if Democrat Jimmy Carter is elected president.

Dole's comment that a Ford administration would have him head a program seeking to establish once and for all the fate of Americans still considered as missing in action in Southeast Asia, represents long overdue effort by a high ranking government official that may prove to be worthwhile.

Neither man came off as a clear winner or loser in this go-around, but then the purpose of the debate, like the presidential sessions, is not to have winners or losers, but to give voters an opportunity to hear in some degree of detail the candidates' positions on issues.

This purpose was accomplished by Dole and Mondale. The jury is not totally in yet on Ford and Carter because they have one more round left. The two will meet for a final time Friday, just 11 days before the election.

Correction

An editorial Saturday described a bus tour of High School Dist. 125. The tour will take place Saturday, not Tuesday as reported.

We went to the moon for them—Who cares?

"How soon they forget." That is what the nation's priceless and historic moon rocks might be whispering to themselves in the deep, dark caverns of NASA in Houston.

A new report from the space agency indicates the number of scientists eager to study the lunar lumps has dropped by 50 per cent.

It seems that since new data about soil and rocks from Mars has been provided by Vikings 1 and 2, the moon rocks have become "has beens."

The lack of interest doesn't seem to bother Geochemist George Duke. He believes the scientific community now knows more about the composition of lunar soil than about earth's dirt.

Another official in charge of the tourism and goodwill aspect of the rock collection noted he had more samples than the scientist.

But while interest in the rocks has waned, that does not mean the rocks are for sale. Duke knows the exact location of all 384,042 grams of the lunar samples, and while the public has shown its usual degree of fickleness, Duke plans to keep watch.

Athletics a key to ending crime?

Moola moola replaces boola boola

by TOM TIEDE

With the Ford Campaign — Gerald Ford never strays far from the playing fields of his imagination. This election season he is unwinding before audiences with sports jokes, explaining his positions with sports metaphors. He is even occasionally insisting that athletics may help this troubled country find itself once again.

In Florida he invited the jocks of America to help him in his fight against crime. He said athletes and not criminals should be the hero models for young people. He added that he has directed the Council of Physical Fitness and Sports to join state and local authorities to promote "team play rather than foul play among the young."

So saying, it may be that the President has dated himself. His memory of sports, though nice, could also be naive. Sports today is wonderful fun, most interesting, but not the answer to crime.

The name of the games, as coach after coach reminds us, is Win. And the pursuit of that goal is not entirely removed from the elements that create criminality: greed and excessiveness. In baseball a good pitcher will knock the batter down now and then; it's not legal but it's effective. Grantland Rice was a poet, not a realist.

Not everything in sports is so suspicious. But the trend has not been good. When Gerald Ford played center for the University of Michigan Wolverines, his dream was to cut down Bronko Nagurski. Today the players dream of filming deodorant commercials. That is better than holding up banks, admittedly, but one recalls that when lineman Alex Karras was caught making illegal bets on football games he was sentenced to serve with Howard Cosell on the Monday night TV program.

It should be pointed out that the peculiarities of big-time sport have not evolved by accident. There is an extensive farm system for corruption in the system, beginning with the beginners, which is to say little leagues. Recently a coach in Bethesda, Md., was charged with giving his tykes diuretics (a drug to reduce weight), and responded that if the persecution against him continued, "I'm going to tell what really goes on in youth football — and I've seen it all."

What the coach has seen is the politics and atrocities of sports for teenagers and younger: the parent who employs the coach and hence has two sons in the starting lineup; the umpire who does business with one team's sponsor and so calls 'em the way prudence dictates. So it is that the children learn more than how, when behind the plate, to tip the bat as the opponent is swinging.

Then there is the prejudice. It has not changed in organized kids sports, it has merely shifted from color to sex. Last year in Michigan an 8-year-old girl was told she could not play on the baseball team unless she wore a plastic supporter cup like the boys. Rightly, she thought the idea was dumb, not to say bizarre, but it was the "rule." Her parents had to threaten court action to end the affair.

Small wonder that athletes often reach college and professional fields with less than a Frank Merriwell attitude. Boola boola has been replaced with moola moola, to coin a phrase. Stop the music — "what's in it for me?" Before his sad death last year, long distance runner Steven Prefontaine argued passionately that Olympic athletes should be paid; when asked if glory wasn't enough, he said flatly: "To hell with love of country, and the flag, I compete for myself."

No argument, athletes have changed since Ford vs. Nagurski. Or at least they are simply more honest. Today the most popular hero in sports is an unparalleled egotist, draft dodger and admitted father of a child from a woman other than his wife. Muhammed Ali. One would almost prefer the youngsters read about Willie Sutton.

Then again, perhaps the President is correct. Better for the lads to be breaking bones on the hockey ice than on the streets of San Francisco. Also, assumably, when the coach is providing the uppers it removes the need for the young people to mess around in personal illegalities.

And so we may yet, through athletics, bring our kids up, ever up, until one day they are all just like Joe Namath.

Buffalo Grove Civil Defense booster angered by Mill Creek fire coverage

For five years now I have seen The Buffalo Grove Herald give biased opinions and incomplete information on many news items. I have also read articles in this paper with misconstrued information which I personally had experience with. Nevertheless, I bought this paper anyway because it still gave me some news of my village.

Your coverage of the Mill Creek apartments fire on Oct. 5 was once again incomplete! You did not mention the great job the Buffalo Grove Civil Defense Department did in securing the building against looting. They also remained at the scene until 4:30 a.m., pumping out the water from the basement to enable the fire investigators to determine the cause of the fire. They are all volunteer workers and they worked hard also!

It would be quite beneficial to do a good feature on this department so the Buffalo Grove residents can be made aware of the extra service the village offers to its residents.

One more thing, the Lake County residents of Buffalo Grove want it known about the wonderful service we receive from the Long Grove Fire Department and paramedics. They are truly a fine department. They too, are volunteer workers — 24 hours a day and they are marvelous! They even have great paramedics.

So — please give credit where it is due! We, in the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove, are disgusted with your news coverage.

There's some good in the news

I would like to share with your readers, our appreciation of a group of good Samaritans. My husband was transferred here from Ft. Lauderdale in July 1975. We bought a home, became members of a church, joined a square dance club, all in due time. In April of this year my husband discovered he had cancer and immediately started chemotherapy treatments. Naturally our square dancing ceased. Now we have sold our home and are in an apartment because my husband cannot maintain the house responsibilities. Three weeks ago Marty Morris, from our square dance club, "Just 4 Kicks," called and said she heard we were moving and needed help since we had no family here.

To end my story, Shirley Acks, Joyce Anderson, Marilyn Krejesi, Sue Rodgers and Ken Morris moved all the boxes one Saturday, and the following Saturday, Gene and Jeff Acks, Bill Anderson, Campbell Chrisholm, Ken Morris and Chuck Krejesi moved the furniture. These wonderful people didn't even know us very well. We are forever grateful.

We would like to express our sincere appreciation for the loving concerns and prayers of our pastor and members of Schaumburg Evangelical Covenant Church. The people we work with have expressed warm caring thoughts and deeds. We have lived south of the Mason Dixon line most of our life. Northern hospitality matches anything we have experienced. Our heartfelt thanks to all.

Village's attitude upsets reader

It sure is nice to know that one can count on the Village of Hoffman Estates to provide insight and guidance when confronted with a serious problem. I am responding to The Herald article concerning the parking problem in the Harper's Landing subdivision. When expressing concern over the "unique" planning that was approved by the village (and it was approved!), resident Joe Murphy and other homeowners were told, "Let the buyer beware." That literary gem was expressed by Trustee Bruce Lind and reinforced by President Virginia Hayter. Thank you Hoffman Estates. Why should the village officials worry about Mr. Murphy and 54 other malcontents? Yes, as a new resident of Hoffman Estates I certainly am impressed with remarks such as the above. How about this old favorite, "Love it or leave it." Any others?

Scandals dim nursing home merit

by LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scandals in the rapidly expanding nursing home industry in recent years have obscured the huge program's real accomplishments, says James Tolbert III, president of ANTA Corp.

He says the long-term outlook for the nursing home business is excellent because the proportion of elderly ailing persons in the American population still is rising. He expects the number of long-term patients living in nursing homes to increase to 1.2 million by 1980 from the present 1.1 million.

ANTA (the name comes from a Choctaw Indian word meaning to rest or abide) is successor to the Four Seasons Nursing Homes Centers of America, which went broke in 1970 because of too rapid expansion.

TOLBERT WAS the trustee in bankruptcy and organized the new company. Under his rule, ANTA has steadily increased the profitability of its 26 nursing homes in Texas, Illinois, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado. It also has diversified in building materials by buying Nicholas-Homeshield, Inc., a Chicago aluminum products fabricator with sales of $41 million, last year. Recently it bought PPD Corp. of Newark N.J., a maker of polyethylene packaging materials with sales of $25 million a year.

Although the nursing homes with revenues of only $6 million last year now are a minor part of its business, they still are a big deal to Tolbert, a comparatively youthful (he's 41) MBA from Stanford. He says the nursing home business reflects the conscience of Americans, their growing concern with comfortable care for the aged in a time when, because so many husbands and wives both have jobs, it is increasingly difficult to care for seriously ailing parents or other elderly relatives at home.

The industry began on a small scale in the 1930s to replace the traditional almshouse. It got its biggest boost with passage of the Hill-Burton federal financing act in 1954. In that year there were 6,538 nursing homes in the United States with 172,000 beds. By 1973 there were 24,996 with 1,275 million beds.

Stricter federal regulation both of the medical care and of the financing and administration of the homes, will parallel their cotinued growth, Tolbert said.

THAT'S INEVITABLE because federal, state and local governments continue to pay bigger shares of the cost. In 1969, about 44 per cent of the operating costs came from tax funds, 56 per cent from patient payments and other private sources. By 1974, the share of tax dollars in nursing-home revenues had climbed to 53 per cent and probably will rise more. The total revenues of the industry in 1974 were $7.5 billion, about 5 per cent of national private health outlays and 10 per cent of public outlays for that year.

Persons over 65 now account for 10 per cent of the country's population. Although nursing homes are primarily for the elderly and the average age of resident patients is 77, about 19 per cent of the patients are chronic invalids under 60, and 8 per cent are not yet 50.

The proportion of Americans over 65, who become nursing home patients, has more than doubled in the last 15 years but still is only 6 per cent, indicating that the vast majority of the elderly remain healthy and able to care for themselves, or are cared for by their children or other relatives.

Speaking dollar-wise

Different tax terms for investments

Dear Mr. Rosefsky: Could you please explain the difference between tax-exempt, tax-sheltered and tax-deferred investments? We've been hearing these terms from brokers and we're confused as to the distinction.

The distinctions can be complex and blurry, but anyone planning an investment in any of those areas should get a good handle on the basic characteristics of each.

"Tax exempt" basically means that the income received on such investments does not have to be subjected to federal income tax. The common form of investment in this area is the municipal bond — an IOU issued by a state, city or any similar subdivision, including highway districts, sewer districts and the like. While the interest income you receive on these bonds is exempt from federal taxes, it can be subject to state and local income taxes. If, however, you are a resident of that state, your income on those bonds may also be exempt from the state and local income tax levy.

"Tax deferred" means generally that the income you receive on the investment is temporarily removed from taxation, but likely you will have to pay some taxes on it eventually. Typical examples are insurance annuities, Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) and Keogh Plans. The income you earn on an IRA account, for instance, accumulates over the years without taxation. But when you later withdraw the money, you'll have to pay some tax on it. In theory, you'll be retired and in a lower tax bracket when you do withdraw the funds, so that the tax bite will be much smaller than it would have been while you were earning your regular income. (With the IRA and Keogh there's an additional tax break — the annual contribution you make is deductible in the year you make it, thus effectively reducing your taxable income for that year.)

"Tax sheltered" can imply a number of things. To put it simply, there are features in a tax-sheltered investment that can offset the otherwise taxable income, thus reducing the bite. Real estate is a common form of tax-sheltered investment.

Say you own a fourplex apartment house. Your annual rental income is $4,000 after expenses (which will include utilities, property tax, interest on your mortgage and so forth). That $4,000 would otherwise be taxable. However, the tax laws allow you to "depreciate" rental properties. If the building (excluding the land, which is not depreciable) has a value of, say, $100,000, and a useful life of 25 years, you can write off the value of the property accordingly. One alternative is called the straight line method. By this method you can take a deduction for depreciation of $4,000 each year for 25 years. It's a paper entry, not an out-of-pocket expense. In effect, the depreciation deduction offsets your $4,000 cash-hand income, meaning that you don't have to pay taxes on that income. When you later sell the building, though, your profit will be based on the value of the building as depreciated, thus exposing you to a higher tax at that time.

Energy crisis evident; may enslave U.S.

by STANLEY DARDEN

ATLANTA (UPI) — A Chicago businessman who is putting private industry into the search for new energy reserves warns that unless the United States develops its natural reserves of oil, gas and coal, "the end result could be economic slavery."

Barry Van Der Meulen, chairman of the board of Havoco of America, Ltd., compared the present Arab stranglehold on oil reserves in the Middle East to the American occupation of the Philippines during World War II.

"The American presence in the Philippines was like a dagger pointed at the throat of Japan," said Van Der Meulen. "Something had to be done because our presence represented a threat to the energy supply line of the Japanese. The result was Pearl Harbor."

VAN DER MEULEN was in Atlanta recently to attend the annual convention of the International Assn. of Financial Planners. He told the association, which represents over 2,500 individual investors, that public capital must be secured to finance the exploration and development of energy reserves.

"We need public capital," said Van Der Meulen. "We need to get back to results or the end result could be economic slavery."

Van Der Meulen characterized the United States oil reserves situation at present as "a short-term glut and a long-term crisis." He said it's true that the oil storage tanks are practically full in most parts of the nation, but the real need is for new reserves in the ground, something his group is searching for in the Illinois basin.

"I have to laugh when someone asks me whether there's still an energy crisis," he said. "Of course there's an energy crisis, and it's going to get a lot worse unless we stop depending totally on foreign reserves and begin to develop some initiative of our own to pull out the reserves we know exist in the continental United States.

Pride of German heritage taught

Lantern Festival lights culture's path for kids

by JOHN N. FRANK

When the winds of autumn sweep across the Rhine River in Germany, children make cardboard lanterns and parade through the streets singing songs and celebrating the "lantern festival."

This fall, the lantern festival has come alive in the Northwest suburbs — in the minds of 180 German-American children who are learning about it in a special German-language school.

Each Friday evening, the children gather in eight classrooms at St. James Catholic School in Arlington Heights to learn the language their parents and grandparents speak and to gain a greater appreciation of their ethnic heritage, says Edeltraud Dillman, one of the women who helped found the school in 1974.

"EVERY ETHNIC group is proud of its heritage," says Mrs. Dillman. She says German-Americans are tired of the stereotype portrayals of Germans in war movies. "The war is over, and we are Americans too."

Through the use of textbooks printed in Germany, the school helps children, ages 5 to 12, learn about their background including such things as the lantern festival and various Christmas customs, Mrs. Dillman says.

The eight teachers speak German during the two-hour class sessions, and parents are asked to speak German with their children at home to help the learning process, Mrs. Dillman says.

The idea for the school came from a desire local German-Americans had to teach their children the language of their ancestors so grandparents and grandchildren could communicate, says Mrs. Dillman.

"THE GOAL is that they (children) have enough understanding of the German language to make a visit by relatives easier," says Hilde Lichter, another of the school's founders. Although parents could teach German to their children at home, the teachers in the school can help children master the intricacies of German grammar and give them an understanding of German cultural heritage, Mrs. Dillman says.

Children are often tired and sleepy by the time Friday night classes begin, but they respond quickly to teacher questions and say they really enjoy learning German.

"I like it a lot, and I think it's fun," says 7-year-old Kirsten Finlayson of Rolling Meadows.

"I like German school because you can go to Germany and visit grandma and your cousins," says 8-year-old Karen Stachel of Long Grove. Karen's brother, 10-year-old Andreas, says the school enabled him to speak nothing but German during his 6-week summer trip to visit relatives in Hamburg last summer.

SUCH VISITS allow the children to actually feel a part of their heritage, Mrs. Dillman says, as do visits by German relatives.

"It's very pathetic when grandparents from Germany come here and can't communicate with their grandchildren," Mrs. Dillman says.

Other children, like Rene Blechner of Palatine, have learned enough to be able to enjoy speaking German with relatives in the area, like Rene's aunt and uncle in Long Grove.

"This is really the best time for them to learn the native sounds," says Gerda McLoskey, one of the eight teachers in the school.

EACH TEACHER assigns weekly homework so that children will spend at least one night a week studying German, says Mrs. Lichter, a Prospect Heights resident.

Parents pay $60 for their first child to attend the 10-months of class, $50 for the second and $35 for the third. Parents who are members of the Deutsch-Amerikanischer National Kongress receive a $5 discount per child.

The fees, used for nominal salaries for the school's eight teachers, help bridge the language and cultural gaps which America's melting pot environment sometimes causes to develop between generations.

Today's automobiles

Still a dangerous place for kids to be

by BARBARA LADD

Last summer a 3-year-old boy shattered the windshield of his parents' car when his father slammed on the brakes to avoid hitting a neighbor's dog. The child spent several weeks in a hospital recovering from severe cuts, a broken nose and a concussion.

But he was lucky. The government's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) estimates that more than 10,000 children under the age of 4 have been killed in automobile crashes in the past decade.

In fact, traffic accidents are the leading cause of death in childhood once the critical, early infancy months have passed, according to the National Safety Council's 1973 Accident Facts edition. Those accidents outrank cancer, congenital malformations, drowning, pneumonia and burns.

"Children are especially susceptible to injuries at even moderate (25 to 30 miles per hour) speeds," explained Dr. Patricia Conrad, Des Plaines, specializing in care of infants and children. "They are vulnerable because they are lightweight and more easily thrown around than adult passengers."

She believes restraints held in place by the vehicle's lap belts would protect children from many of the automobile injuries she sees in her pediatric practice.

But a recent study completed by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety reports that in three cases out of every four, when children were observed sharing the same car with their seat belt-wearing parents, the children wore no restraints and had no protective devices available.

The same study found that child restraints were incorrectly fastened 73 per cent of the time when in use. And adult lap belts caused internal injury when children under 5 years wearing them were involved in collisions.

"IT'S JUST so difficult to get the message across to parents about properly restraining their children in cars," said Dr. Conrad. "At least until a tragedy happens."

To prevent such tragedy, some parents do buy child car restraints. But chances are good that they may not be getting adequate protection for their children, according to the NHTSA.

"There are hundreds of products sold as safe protection for child automobile passengers," said Robert Weltzer, highway safety management specialist for NHTSA in Chicago. "But a lot of them aren't very good."

What is needed, said Weltzer, is implementation of the Revised Child Restraint Standard, which has been "in the works" since March 1, 1974. The revisions would include governmental crash testing of all restraints to ensure the meeting of specific protection standards for speeds starting at 20 miles per hours, he explained.

"WE'RE JUST about finished developing and producing a test dummy for uniform testing procedures, so you can expect action on the issue soon," Weltzer said.

But action has been a long time coming. In April 1971 the first Child Restraint Standard was passed. Before that, the amount of protection the child seat really provided was up to the manufacturer. Usually the seats were convenience features for parents and offered little protection to the child.

After the standard, manufacturers were required to label and date the devices. The label includes the recommendation for weight and height of the child for whom the seat is designed, the types of motor vehicles and all seating positions in the vehicle where the seat should be safely used; and the certification that the child seat does comply with the requirements of Federal Motor Vehicle Standard No. 213 (the '71 Child Restraint Standard).

WHILE WAITING for the government to test car seats for effectiveness, as proposed in their March '74 revisions, other safety-minded organizations have taken action to help consumers choose good protection for their children.

Consumers Union, in an issue of Consumers Reports two years ago, tested and recommended several brands of car seats. The University of Michigan Highway Safety Research Institute has conducted crash tests and The Physicians for Automotive Safety came out with a list of recommended crash-tested devices last May.

The Physicians for Automotive Safety recommend car carriers as opposed to car beds for the infant. These face toward the rear or sideways, where the baby rides in a half upright position, secured with a harness.

For the child able to sit up without support, the "shield" is preferred by the physician's organization up to the age of 2 or 3. In the event of a crash, the child's body is caught by the padded shield which acts as a cushion.

Ford and Chrysler Corps have such designs.

AN ALTERNATIVE to the shield is the "traditional" car seat, where the child is held by a harness, a lap belt and a crotch strap. One of the most popular seats is put out by General Motors.

The safety harness, available in department and juvenile specialty stores, provides good protection at low cost, according to the Physicians for Automotive Safety. And cost may be an important factor for some families, since the safest of the car seats fall into the $30 bracket.

Other points to look for when choosing child restraints include these recommended by the NHTSA:

- The child seat must be designed so it can be fastened in place with the vehicle seat belts.
- The seat must give protection from front and rear-end crashes and whiplash injury.
- The seat's restraint belts must be at least 1½ inches wide.
- Forward movement of the child should be restricted to 12 inches.
- Special padding — not just sponge rubber — should line all areas the child's head might contact.
- There must not be any sharp or pointed hardware on the seat.

Weltzer, of NHTSA, recommended that consumers write to Action for Child Transportation Safety, Inc. 400 Central Park West, 15P, New York, N.Y. 10025, or Physicians for Auto Safety, 50 Union Ave., Irvington, N.J. 07111, for specific product advice and evaluations.

Smoker who kicked habit helping others to quit

by JOHN J. SANKO

Paul Wright has been called the "Ralph Nader of the Smoker's World." It's a title he likes.

Wright, a chain-smoker for 20 years, kicked the habit after doctors told him to "stop smoking or die." Now, he is working to help others do the same as president of the National Association on Smoking and Health. He lives near Denver.

"We're a profit-making organization, but we have the success of the smoker in mind instead of our financial success," Wright said. "And I don't think there is any doubt that we have the most successful program in the country today. Our success ratio after one year is over 90 per cent."

Wright, 41, was a financial planner and money manager until four years ago when doctors told him he had to quit smoking. He said his job for 17 years "was to save wealthy people money and make wealthy people wealthier."

"Then I was told that I had to stop smoking or die," he said. "They thought I had lung cancer. I went to smoking clinics, but what I found never did help me. Everytime I went, I felt ripped off."

WRIGHT BEGAN his own investigation of the smoking problem by studying at various schools throughout Europe, including the University of London School of Medicine. The result of his work was what he called the "Seven Day Plan to Stop Smoking."

"There are 70 million smokers in America, and 45 million of them want to quit smoking," Wright said. "But they can't because they're drug addicts.

"We're not only in the midst of a national epidemic, but in the midst of a national disgrace. How the strongest nation in the world can push this under the rug and ignore it is beyond comprehension."

Wright said he first was compared to consumer-advocate Nader in a Wall Street Journal article. He liked the comparison although he lives nowhere near as Spartan a life as Nader.

Wright and his wife, Jeanie, whom he married in Geneva, Switzerland, have a spacious home where "all smoking is banned" in the foothills near Denver. When he isn't lecturing across the country, he tries to get in some fishing, golf and skiing, and he admits he enjoys good food.

FOR A FEE ranging from $225 to $250, he will help people quit cigarets. He said he has been successful with smokers as young as 15 and as old as 75.

"We are the first program to ever treat the smoker as a drug addict. All smokers — or 95 per cent of them if not all — are drug addicts. They are addicted to the drug nicotine.

"They don't like to hear that, but it's the truth. When you take their drug supply away, some people shake and have tremors. They have all the withdrawal symptoms — anxiety, depression, acute dryness of the lips, headaches, insomnia and lack of energy."

Wright said his treatment involves the "total man concept" and has developed to the point where it is ready to expand. His "smoking cessation centers" are planned for Los Angeles, San Diego, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Boston.

Smokers who sign up for his seven-day program are guaranteed their money back if they don't kick the habit. The intensive program includes what Wright calls creative relaxation.

"WE GET THEM off cigarets in 24 to 48 hours. Half of the program is based on behavioral modification. And we take all their cigarets away when they come. It's cold turkey. No habit becomes changed until you have completely put it behind you. The tapering off system is terrible."

The program involves both private and group therapy, similar to that used by Alcoholics Anonymous.

"The buddy system helps a great deal," Wright said. "Quitting is a very lonely business. They relate their experiences to one another. For some of them, it is like having been in the doldrums of hell."

Wright said much of the program involves mind control — teaching new habits to replace old ones.

Participants discuss the positive benefits of not smoking versus the negative aspects of continuing. They try to learn why they smoke. They also are told about smoking-related diseases.

"Knowledge is power," Wright said. "If they have a knowledge of what they are doing and why, then it is no longer a problem. We can get anyone off cigarets in a couple of days — that's easy, that's simple. The trick is to get them off cigarets for the rest of their lives."

Sweater look requires a larger outer garment

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I bought one of those very new, loose, wrapped sweaters with the large sleeves in a beautiful knit, then made myself gabardine slacks and a skirt. I thought I had a great beginning for fall, but now, I find that any jacket or coat I had in my wardrobe doesn't fit over this new sweater. What is the answer? — Mrs. Shirley S. J.

Dear Shirley,

If you have noticed the advance pictures of fall cover-ups, you'll find they are just that: they are loose, large and non-fitting. You'll find more capes, ponchos and unlined coats with raglan or drop shoulders for extra room. If you have chosen the sweatery look for fall, you will probably have to consider a new coat to wear over it.

This is a perfect year for my "flip-cape." If you haven't sent for your instructions, send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

The flip-cape can be made with 1½ yards of wool. It can be worn over pants, skirts or jumpsuits and is perfect for today's "layered look." I can't think of any type of coat you could make for less money and in less time.

Today's winner of my personalized gold blazer buttons: Mrs. G. Dale Cartwright, 302 E. Second Ave., Lititz, Pa. 17543.

Here's her winning tip:

"When making men's trousers, as well as my own, I always press the creases in immediately after cutting the pieces of fabric. It's much easier before assembling the pants and the creases ar always in the right place."

Be sure to send your favorite sewing tip and questions to Eunice Farmer in care of this paper. I love hearing from you and perhaps you will be a winner.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

It seems to me that a few years ago you had a column about putting some kind of interfacing in the hem of coats as well as the hems of the sleeves to prevent the stitches showing through. Please repeat this column since I have lost the previous one and I'm sure there are others who would like to know about this. Thanks for your wonderful column. You have seemed to come up with just the right answer when I need it. — Mrs. Norma M.

Dear Mrs. M.,

The interfacing you are talking about is called "wiggan" by tailors. You can make your own strip of wiggan by cutting a bias strip of lightweight, woven interfacing about three inches wide.

After the hem of your coat has been carefully marked (always drop the hem slightly at the center back and gradually curve it up to the side seams), baste the line for the fold of the hem. Hems of coats should be about two inches wide; any wider would create too much bulk.

Place the bias strip of interfacing on the fold or marked line of the hem and catch-stitch it in place at the fold line: The strip will extend from the edge of the facing around to the other front where the facing ends. Next, fold the hem up and baste near the edge and press the hem lightly (it's advisable to use brown paper under the hem to prevent an indentation).

Cut the strip so that only one-half inch remains above the edge of the hem of the garment. Again, catch-stitch the garment fabric to the top of the strip of interfacing— not catching in the coat itself, just the hem. Next, catch-stitch the interfacing only (that extends above the hem) to the seams of your coat; the lining will hold the rest in place.

Sew simple
by Eunice Farmer

Prodeed the same way with the sleeves of any suit or coat that will have a finished lining; you'll love the extra body and the professional look it gives your garment by eliminating those unsightly stitches from showing through; of course, this is only practical in a lined garment.

For the booklet, "All About Sleeves," put 10 cents in a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and mail it to Eunice Farmer, Box 4994, Des Moines Iowa, 50306.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am heart-broken! After buying some beautiful fabric and having it made-up, I found that the machine buttonholes on the jacket were so slanted that they looked crooked. Since the fabric is a check, it is even more noticeable. The buttonholes have been cut; is there anything I can do to correct this? — Mrs. Dora K. R.

Dear Dora,

This was indeed an unfortunate experience for you, but I think there is a solution. How about sewing an extra strip of fabric over the front for a band detail, perhaps on the bias, anxffffffnd not add new buttonholes. It would look like a fly-front closing and the buttonholes would be covered under the fly. (Of course, you would have to use very flat buttons.)

Another suggestion would be to cover the buttonholes with frogs or the new toggle closings, depending on how sporty the garment is. You could even put a strip of leather or Ultra Suede down the front with machine stitched detail to hide the error. Use your creative ideas; perhaps it will even enhance the garment.

A good rule to remember in the future is: when there are a whole line of buttonholes, DON'T cut any of them open until you have checked the positioning on all of them and make sure they are all the same size. They can be ripped-out and re-stitiched if an error is caught before cutting — it is impossible after they have been cut.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Doc quit smoking while still ahead

I know of your concern over people who persist in smoking cigarets. Now that I have finally quit, I really understand this concern.

However, you never smoked. How can you tell someone who has smoked how to stop when you don't know what it's like? For this reason alone people will turn you off! Unfortunately I know this is true as I have heard many people say so.

Don't assume too much. What makes you think I have never smoked? In fact I may have put you in the shade. At one time I smoked more than two packs a day. I quit the first time in 1952 and stayed off for several years. Then I smoked a small amount intermittently for a few years but never a great amount again. In recent years I have not even resorted to the occasional puff on a special occasion. They make me ill now, as smoking does most people, and that has pretty well eliminated my desire to smoke permanently.

Yes, I know all about quitting smoking. As Mark Twain said, I have done it many times. And I quit cold turkey for more than six years the first time. Go tell those friends of yours who have tuned me out that they had better tune me back in since I am about as experienced on smoking as one can get on a personal basis. If they have as much will power as I have they will be able to quit, too.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco: Cigarets, Cigars, Pipes. You can share it with your friends who need to be motivated. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

My granddaughter wants to be a high jumper. A teacher told her to lift weights to develop her leg muscles. I think this would develop unsightly arm muscles that would ruin her looks. I say riding a bicycle uphill would strengthen the legs without straining the arms. What do you say?

You train the muscles you are going to use. You can develop leg muscle by lifting weights in exercises that involve the leg muscles in the lifts. Many football players develop leg muscles using complex machines that allow you to exercise the muscles against resistance.

Obviously if you were going to play tennis, you might need to develop the muscles in your shoulder, arm and forearm. For high jumping you need to develop the legs. Bicycling is a good way to do it. Modified knee bends are of some help. The exercise is done by kneeling on one knee, with the other knee bent. Then you raise up as from a normal knee bend. The advantage of the one knee position is that it prevents "over-bending" of the knee joint as it need not be bent more than about 90 degrees. Obviously you alternate which knee you are kneeling on to exercise both thighs, one at a time.

Then you can do exercises to strengthen the calf muscles. Repeated standing on the toes, one foot at a time, will enable you to work each calf muscle. Running and cycling will then complete the picture for development of leg muscles.

I must disagree with you about the unsightly arm muscles. Average weights used for the arms will not need to cause big bulging muscles. They can be used to firm and strengthen well proportioned muscles. It is all in how you do it that makes the difference.

Repotting in regular soil saved her violet

Dear Dorothy: A lovely African violet plant did beautifully for about a year, suddenly tipped a little and the leaves on one side got soft and odd-looking. Replanted it in violet potting soil and every leaf turned gummy-looking and draggy. Showed it to the florist. He promptly replanted it in a clay pot with regular potting soil, watered it and said to leave it alone for a few days. How right he was. It came to life with every leaf luxuriant. Ever heard of this? — Mrs. Dimitri Gravenis

Dr. C. Mark Cathey of the Beltsville USDA Laboratories says this is a condition called "water mold," and is caused by open wounds at the root line when leaves are removed. Replanting in rich African violet soil aggravated the condition, he says, and the florist did the perfect thing.

Dear Dorothy: Several pairs of expensive rose point Irish lace curtains have become yellowed due to sun and dust. Would it be safe to bleach them? If not, how should they be washed? — L. Searcy

Try one panel in a sodium perborate solution and one in an enzyme-active solution, then hand wash, or wash gently in a nylon bag to reduce agitation. Whichever works best will determine how you deal with the problem.

Dear Dorothy: How do you keep tea from getting cloudy when it cools? — Mrs. A. M. Dougherty

Some add a pinch of baking soda when steeping tea; some say cooling it before refrigerating helps; some add a bit of boiling water to clear it. And others say that allowing a quart of water containing a large pinch of tea leaves to sit in the sun until it gets to be the right color makes for never-cloudy tea.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Ask Andy

Englishman invented the tin can

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Scott Arnold, 13, of Fredericton, N.B., Canada, for his question:
WHEN WAS THE TIN CAN INVENTED?

The need for a better way to preserve foods was brought about during the French Revolution. Toward the end of the 18th century, Napoleon Bonaparte's troops were suffering from lack of food. Their problem was not that they didn't have enough of it, but rather that it spoiled while being shipped from place to place or during storage.

In 1795 France offered a prize of 12,000 francs to any citizen who could find a way to preserve food for a long period of time. One of the men who sought the prize was Nicolas Appert, a Paris chef, winemaker and pickler. He claimed his prize in 1810 by showing that foods placed in loosely corked bottles, dipped in hot water and then sealed could preserve food.

At about the same time an Englishman, Peter Durand, obtained a British patent covering the use of iron and tin in making metal canisters. Durand's metal containers were made from sheet iron and coated with a thin layer of tin. The advantage, of course, was that if dropped they would not break.

Durand sold his patent to a firm named Donkin, Hall and Gamble, which in turn set up shop in London. At first the proper name for these containers was "tin canister." This was shortened to "tin" in Great Britain. When the tin reached the United States, it became the "tin can" or more simply "can."

By 1818 the British navy was being served canned soups and meats. In 1824 the British explorer William Parry took canned foods with him on an expedition to the Artic. Some of the cans were left behind, and when opened in 1938 the food was still good. Instructions on opening the can were still legible and said simply: "Cut round the top with a chisel and hammer." Clearly the day of the speedy can opener had not yet dawned in Parry's time.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Gillian Burles, 10, of Gowley, Alta., Canada, for his question:
WHERE DO SPIDERS GO IN THE WINTER?

Most spiders remain awake during the winter season. They may be found at any time in hidden crevices, under rubbish, in wood piles, or within dark, damp vegetation. Lack of food does not bother them in the least — they can go for weeks on end without it. but the ingenious trapdoor spider does hibernate, first sealing his little doorway with a blanket of silk before settling down for a winter nap.

The life cycle of the noiseless, patient spider varies greatly depending on the species. Some hatch, mature, mate and die with in a year, while other live several years. Spiderdom's record senior citizen is the tarantula, which can live more than 20 years. Usually the females far outlive the males in the more primitive species, sometimes by as much as 15 years.

Today is Monday, Oct. 18, the 292nd day of 1976 with 74 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Venus.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Libra.

American actor George C. Scott, an Academy Award winner in "Patton," was born Oct. 18, 1927.

On this date in history:

• In 1776, the boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania was finally settled. It was to be known as "The Mason-Dixon Line."

• In 1873, the first rules governing intercollegiate football were drawn up by representatives of Yale, Princeton, Rutgers and Columbia universities.

• In 1959, Russia claimed to have taken the first pictures of the far side of the moon.

• In 1974, the Watergate coverup trial jury heard a tape recording, in which President Nixon told aide John Dean to try to stop the Watergate burglary investigation before it implicated White House personnel.

South gets laugh in slam

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Jim: "Bridge analysis by British internationalist Boris Schapiro is a collection of hands from actual play. He starts with a chapter on bridge humor."

Oswald: "The humor in this hand was not appreciated by East and West. South really should have opened one club. With five very good clubs and five very bad spades you break the rule of bidding the higher-ranking, five-card suit first. Anyway, he opened one spade, North raised to two spades and South jumped to six."

Jim: "West opened the king of hearts and, instead of showing any signs of distress, South took his singleton ace, cashed the ace of diamonds and led a low spade toward dummy. West hopped up with his ace, dropping his partner's jack. Then he tried to cash the queen of hearts. South ruffed, dropped East's queen of spades and brought home his ridiculous slam."

Oswald: "The humor here is very British. At first glance West looks like an idiot. Actually, the fault lay with East. He dropped his deuce of diamonds on that first diamond lead! It was an expert, or supposed expert, game. Had East played the three spot, West would have read him for two diamonds and seen what South was up to."

Perez single gives Reds dramatic 4-3 Series win

World Series

From Herald Wire Services

CINCINNATI — Hot-hitting Tony Perez lined a single through the bone-chilling air to score Ken Griffey with two out in the ninth inning Sunday night and the Cincinnati Reds put the New York Yankees into cold storage with a 4-3 victory to take a commanding two-game lead in the World Series.

A throwing error with two outs opened the door in the ninth inning and the Reds capitalized to shock the Yankees and Jim "Catfish" Hunter.

Hunter, who retired 12 straight hitters at one stretch after a shaky start, had two easy outs when disaster struck in the ninth.

Griffey bounced a grounder to shortstop Fred Stanley and raced all the way to second on a throwing error. Hunter gave Joe Morgan an intentional pass, and then Perez delivered as he has done so many times in his career.

The Yankees rallied to knot the score in the seventh inning and drive Reds' starter Fred Norman from the mound.

Willie Randolph looped a single to center and scored on Stanley's double to left. With one out Roy White singled through the hole at short, Stanley holding at third.

Jack Billingham replaced Norman and White was forced at second, Stanley scoring the Yankees' third run of the game.

Cincinnati peppered Hunter for three runs in the second inning and took a 3-1 lead over the Yankees after five innings.

The Reds jumped quickly out in front in the second when Dan Driessen, the designated hitter who warms his bats in a clubhouse sauna bath between plate appearances, drilled a leadoff double off the center field fence and scored on a single by George Foster.

Foster was thrown out trying to steal second but Johnny Bench followed with a double to left-center and, after Cesar Geronimo walked, Dave Concepcion scored Bench with a single. Concepcion then stole second, and after Pete Rose walked, Geronimo scored on a sacrifice fly by Ken Griffey.

Meanwhile, the Yankees managed only one hit off southpaw Norman over the first three innings. Norman, the Reds' only remaining lefthanded starter now that Don Gullett is out for the rest of the Series, allowed only two base runners over the first three innings — a single by Lou Piniella in the first and a walk to Fred Stanley in the third.

New York scored a single run in the fourth when Rose flagged down Thurman Munson's two-bouncer, but his throw to first was too late. Singles by Chris Chambliss and Graig Nettles brought home Munson. Norman got out of the jam with a strikeout and infield out.

The game was the first ever played on Sunday night in the World Series, and it drew plenty of criticism from the players because of the cold weather.

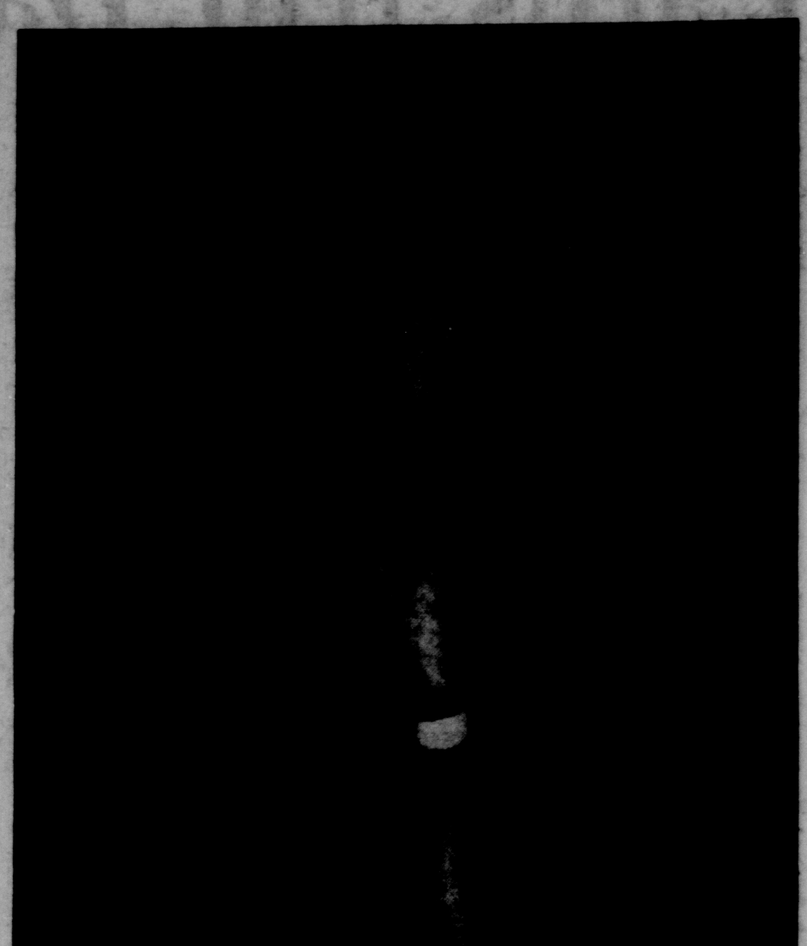

"I don't like this kind of weather, and I don't know a player who does," said Yankees' Manager Billy Martin. "They should never play this late in October. We should have started the playoffs earlier."

Rookie Pat Zachry will pitch for the Reds and Dock Ellis will hurl for the Yankees when the World Series switches to Yankee Stadium for the third game Tuesday night.

Zachry, a right-hander, posted a 14-7 record with a 2.74 earned run average this season and was the winning pitcher in the second game of the Reds' three-game sweep of the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League playoffs.

Ellis, also a right-hander, was 17-8 during the regular season after having been acquired from the Pittsburgh Pirates last winter. Ellis also won the third game of the American League playoffs against Kansas City.

This will be Ellis' second appearance in World Series play. He was the losing pitcher for Pittsburgh in the first game of the 1971 Series against Baltimore.

Black Hawks top Minnesota; Boldirev stars

Ivan Boldirev slammed home a pair of shots within a minute of each other in the second period and the Chicago Black Hawks coasted to a 3-0 win over visiting Minnesota Sunday night, raising their record to 4-2.

Boldirev, who came into the contest with only one goal to his credit, nearly skated off the ice with four, missing a hat trick in the third stanza because of an offsides infraction. He settled for an assist on Dick Redmond's power play goal later in the game.

The Black Hawks cracked the scoring column at 12:24 of period two, Bobby Orr and John Marks assisting Boldirev. At 12:34, Orr aided a Boldirev backhand score. Marks also teamed with Boldirev in assisting the third goal.

Tony Esposito turned back 24 shots to record the shutout. Chicago chewed up the North Star defense with 42 shots.

In other NHL action Sunday Atlanta edged Buffalo 6-5, Boston rallied to topple Montreal 5-3, Philadelphia soared past Detroit 7-4 and the New York Rangers came from behind to shock Colorado 4-3.

TO BE SURE the nose of the football is across the goal line, Conant fullback Jeff Johnson reaches into the end zone and places the ball onto paydirt. Johnson's touchdown in the third quarter gave Cougars a temporary 14-7 lead, but they were to score twice more in 28-14 homecoming win over cross-town rival Hoffman Estates. Johnson scored two TDs. Rams squander lead, top Bears with closing surge

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Rams showed an offense for about one period here Sunday afternoon.

That was all they needed to topple the Bears before 71,751 fans.

Lawrence McCutcheon, whose third-period fumble set up the Bears' only touchdown, burst 18 yards for a score with 5:31 gone in the final quarter as the Rams squandered a 10-point lead and then rallied for a 20-12 victory.

The Bears had the opportunity — once again — but were hampered by penalties and a sputtering offense in a ragged game that is not likely to wind up in the film library of the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Tom Dempsey kicked a 37-yard field goal with 1:58 left to put the game out of reach for the Rams, who improved their record to 4-1-1 and remained right behind San Francisco in the National Football conference West.

The Bears now stand 3-3 in the NFC Central Division, tied with surging Green Bay but well behind Minnesota (5-0-1).

Cornerback Monte Jackson intercepted three Bob Avellini passes for the Rams Sunday, two of them in the fourth quarter.

Ron Jaworski, who suffered a fractured shoulder in the Rams' opener at Atlanta on Sept. 12, returned to the lineup after rookie Pat Haden, subbing for the injured James Harris, was shaken up while scrambling late in the opening quarter after taking the Rams into a 10-0 lead.

Jaworski, showing the effects of the layoff, threw two interceptions and couldn't get the Rams going until they took the ball on their own 28 on their second possession in the fourth quarter.

From there, the third-year pro from Youngstown State marched the Rams 72 yards in eight plays in a drive that included a 16-yard pass to Ron Jessie, a 15-yarder to tight end Bob Klein and a 15-yard reverse by Harold Jackson.

Avellini rallied the Bears to the Ram 43 on the next series after McCutcheon's go-ahead touchdown but was intercepted by Jackson on the Ram 34.

The Rams moved to the Bear 21 in eight plays and Dempsey kicked the second field goal to give Los Angeles an eight point advantage.

Walter Payton, who had over 140 yards in 27 carries with another dazzling display of his offenseive moves, broke a 60-yarder to the Rams' 20 in the closing seconds, but Jackson picked off another Avellini pass.

Chicago had grabbed the lead at 12-10 by converting McCutcheon's second fumble into a TD with 4:10 gone in the second half.

On a third and 13 on the Bear 17 and the Rams obvioulsy expecting Avellini to pass, Payton exploded around his left end for his sixth touchdown of the season.

The Rqms took a 10-0 lead in the first period with a seven-yard TD pass from Haden to McCutcheon and a 44-yard field goal by Dempsey.

But Haden was shaken up after being tackled by Wally Chambers and Waymond Bryant with 48 seconds left in the opening period.

After that, the Ram offense was almost non-existent until Jaworski rallied the club in the fourth period. It was so bad that on their final 26 plays of the first half the Rams had a minus six yards on offense.

Bob Thomas kicked a 42-yard field goal and Johnny Musso broke through to block a punt and force a safety to give the Bears their five first-half points.

JIM YOUNGBLOOD, right, of the Los Angeles Rams and Bob Avellini of the Bears both reach for the bouncing football after Chicago fumbled in the opening half Sunday. The Rams recovered and were able to turn the bobble into a touchdown in a 20-12 victory.

Arlington's girls romp in tennis

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Having clinched at least a tie Friday, the Arlington Cardinals won four individual championships to stake out their sixth straight Mid-Suburban League girls' tennis championship Saturday.

"We played excellently," said Arlington coach Mary Lou Hundt. "The girls played exactly as we had anticipated and practiced for."

The raw winds and temperatures of the weekend bothered the Cardinals not a bit as they overwhelmed second place Prospect by 15 points.

Arlington's individual champions were Janet Haberkorn at No. 2 singles, Carrie Sears at No. 3 singles, Sherry Weber and Kris Richey at No. 2 doubles and Lisa Pugsley and Beth Klawitter at No. 3 doubles.

Buffalo Grove sophomore Lisa Smart won her second straight No. 1 singles title as she topped Arlington's Leslie Grabitz 6-3, 6-1.

Prospect's Knights got two individual titles as the No. 1 doubles team of Jeannine Hahn and Lisa Young bested Rolling Meadows' Jenny Jimenez and Cindy Keagle 6-2, 6-0, and Lou Sandstrom and Pam Mache won the No. 4 doubles title over Kathy Golden and Beth DiCola of Arlington 6-3, 7-5.

Haberkorn advanced to the finals of the No. 2 singles with a 6-1, 6-2 semifinal win over Mead-

Cards trip Dallas, Vikes stay unbeaten

NFL roundup

The list of undefeated teams in the National Football League dwindled to an imperfect one Sunday as St. Louis joined the upset club and helped themselves by knocking off visiting Dallas.

After six weeks of campaigning, there are no teams in all of pro football with six wins. Minnesota, in mauling the New York Giants Sunday, is the closest team to perfection at 5-0-1.

The triumph by the Cardinals moved them into a tie with the Cowboys in first place in the NFC East. San Francisco and Oakland meanwhile also posted victories to remain on top in the two western divisions.

Now that Pittsburgh appears to be turning things around (they won impressively over Cincinnati) another perennial American conference power house has hit the skids. Miami dropped their third straight Sunday, in overtime to Kansas City.

Here's what transpired:

CARDS UP SET COWBOYS

Former Niles West standout Jim Hart passed for 346 yards and three touchdowns, including scoring tosses of 54 and 17 yards to Mel Gray, to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 21-17 win over Dallas for the Cowboys' first loss of the season.

The final St. Louis drive began after the fired-up Cardinal defense stopped the Cowboys on a goalline stand late in the third quarter. Dallas had blocked a punt and took over on the eight but St. Louis rookie defensive tackle Mike Dawson led the charge which stopped Charles Young short of the goal line on a fourth and one.

St. Louis took over and Hart passed 21 yards to Terry Metcalf, 23 yards to Gray, 16 yards to J. V. Cain and then threw 17 yards to Gray in the end zone. Cowboy safety Cliff Harris tipped the ball into the air and Gray snatched it for the touchdown. Gray had seven receptions for 152 yards.

TARKENTON HITS 3,000

Fran Tarkenton threw for two touchdowns, including a 41-yarder to Chuck Foreman, and became the National Football League's first Quarterback with 3,000 career completions to lead the Minnesota Vikings to a 24-7 victory over the winless New York Giants. Foreman had 201 total yards with 118 yards on eight receptions and 83 yards on 23 rushes.

Tarkenton, a former Giant, connected on the 3,000th pass of his 16-year NFL career with a seven-yarder to Foreman with 3:50 gone in the game. On the next play, the 36-year-old quarterback recorded his 3,001st completed pass with a 13-yard toss to Sammy White.

Tarkenton's second scoring pass of the day came midway through the final quarter on a two-yarder to Brent McClanahan. The Minnesota quarterback hit on 21-of-30 passes for 288 yards as the Vikings upped their record to 5-0-1.

PITTSBURGH SHOCKS BENGALS

Franco Harris rushed for 141 yards and two touchdowns behind rookie quarterback Mike Kruczek to lead Pittsburgh to a 23-6 upset of the Cincinnati Bengals that snapped the Steelers' three-game losing streak.

Roy Gerela added field goals of 42, 40 and 30 yards for the Steelers, now 2-4. Both of Harris' touchdowns came on one-yard busts.

An inspired Pittsburgh defense paved the way for the win as Kruczek made his first pro start in place of injured Terry Bradshaw.

The Steelers forced three turnovers with pass interceptions by Glen Edwards and Jack Lambert and a fumble recovery by Lambert. Lambert's interception led to Harris' first TD and the recovered fumble to Gerela's second field goal.

The Steelers also sacked quarterback Ken Anderson five times for 33 yards.

The Bengals scored on field goals of 22 and 19 yards by rookie Chris Bahr.

SKINS DUMP DETOIT

Washington's defense, booed last week in defeat, came up with key interceptions by Pat Fischer and Joe Lavender and added five quarterback sacks Sunday as the Redskins defeated the Detroit Lions 20-7.

The interception by Fischer and Lavender led to a field goal and a touchdown after first half scoreless tie. In addition, Joe Theismann, subbing for sore-armed Bill Kilmer, passed for a touchdown as the Redskins raised their record to 4-2 after two straight losses.

Fischer, a 36-year-old veteran of the "Over-the Hill Gang" which allowed 33 points in each of the two defeats, picked off a Greg Landry pass on the Detroit 34 in the third period and Mark Moseley kicked a 42-yard field goal for the first points of the game.

On Washington's next possession, Theismann guided the Redskins 76 yards to a touchdown, hitting Grant for a 40-yard gain and then again from the eight for the score.

RAIDERS KAYO DENVER

Ken Stabler connected on 16-of-20 passes, including a 46-yard touchdown bomb to Cliff Branch, to lead the Oakland Raiders to a 17-10 victory over the penalty-plagued Denver Broncos.

The Broncos threatened a comeback with 26 seconds left when Steve Ramsey completed passes to Otis Armstrong and Haven Moses. But time ran out after a 17-yard Armstrong run to the Raiders' 25.

The win boosted the Raiders' lead in the AFC West as they beat the Broncos for the 14th straight year at Mile High Stadium. The Broncos fell to 3-3.

Oakland scored on a 34-yard Fred Steinfort field goal, Stabler's 46-yarder to Branch and a one-yard run by Pete Banaszak. Steinfort also kicked two extra points.

Denver, in its best first half offensive performance this year, scored on a 21-yard field goal by Jim Turne and an 11-yard pass from Ramsey to Moses.

CHIEFS WIN IN OVERTIME

Jan Stenerud kicked a 34-yard field goal with 17 seconds left in a rainy overtime period to give the Kansas City Chiefs a 20-17 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

The Chiefs had driven from their own 20 to the Dolphin 17 in the final two minutes of the extra session, setting up the winning field goal. The big plays on the drive were Mike Livingston's passes of 23 yards to Larry Brunson and 28 yards to Henry Marshall.

The Dolphins had threatened in the previous series, driving to the Chiefs' 21 but Norm Bulaich fumbled near the 10 and the ball bounced into the end zone where Tim Collier grabbed it for the Chiefs.

Marshall had scored on a 59-yard end-around dash to put Kansas City ahead 17-14 in the final two minutes but Garo Yepremian tied it with a 27-yard field goal with nine seconds of regular play left.

It was the second straight win for the 2-4 Chiefs. The Dolphins stretched their losing streak to three games for the first time since 1970, Coach Don Shula's first season with the club.

PACK PLUNKS PHILADELPHIA

Lynn Dickey threw two long scoring passes and Bartie Smith scored twice on short runs to lead the Green Bay Packers to a 28-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles 28-13.

The victory, their third straight, gave the Packers a 3-3 record and marked the first time they have been at .500 since midway through the 1974 season. Philadelphia fell to 2-4.

Dickey, who completed 12-of-19 passes for 226 yards, threw a 44-yard TD pass to Ken Payne and a 69-yard scoring pass to Willard Harrell. Smith's touchdowns came on one-yard runs.

Philadelphia scored on quarterback Mike Boryla's one-yard sneak and on two field goals by Horst Muhlmann.

The Eagles struck first, taking a 3-0 lead on Muhlmann's 26-yard field goal early in the first quarter. But the Packers, in their most explosive first half showing this season, retaliated with three touchdowns for a 21-6 halftime lead.

FRISCO CLUBS SAINTS

Jim Plunkett ran his season touchdown total to 10 with scoring passes to Gene Washington and Wilbur Jackson and the San Francisco defense had seven more quarterback sacks in a 33-3 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

Sammy Johnson ran one yard for a third San Francisco touchdown while rookie Anthony Leonard returned a punt 60 yards for a fourth score as the 49ers opened up a 30-0 lead in the first half and coasted to their fifth victory in six games.

Steve Mike-Mayer added field goals of 19 and 31 yards while Rich Szaro hit a 46-yarder 6:13 into the third quarter for New Orleans' only points. It was the Saints' fourth loss in six games.

The seven sacks gave the 49ers a team total of 30 in six games as the San Francisco defense came up with its third straight paralyzing performance. Two weeks ago, the 49ers held the New York Jets to six points and last Monday shut out the Los Angeles Rams. In the last three games, the 49ers have allowed only nine points and have recorded 23 sacks.

COLTS CLIP BUFFALO

Lydell Mitchell dashed in from the six yard line late in the second quarter and Bert Jones threw scoring passes of nine and three yards in the final quarter as the Baltimore Colts whipped the Buffalo Bills 31-13.

Mitchell ran for 91 yards as the Colts won their fifth game against only one defeat. The Bills, playing their first game under new coach Jim Ringo, lost their fourth game in six starts. Jones completed 13-of-22 passes for 202 yards.

The clubs traded leads in the first half, with Baltimore going ahead on Don McCauley's two-yard run, then falling behind 13-10 when Bills quarterback Joe Ferguson hit O. J. Simpson for a 33-yard scoring pass. However, Mitchell's score put the Colts ahead to stay.

SAN DIEGO TRIMS HOUSTON

San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts rallied the Chargers on a late 60-yard drive and Rickey Young slashed over for the winning score in a 30-27 upset of the Houston Oilers.

After trailing most of the way, the Oilers had gone ahead 27-24 in the final period on Dan Pastorini's touchdown passes of 67 and 32 yards to Ken Burrough and Billy Johnson.

Fouts then put the Oilers away, leaving each team with a 4-2 season record. He connected with Young for four passes and 25 yards, completed another pass to tight end Pat Curran for 27 and then Young slashed off right tackle for the final yard and the winning touchdown.

CLEVELAND NIPS ATLANTA

Speedy Greg Pruitt rushed for 191 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Cleveland Browns to a 20-17 victory over the Atlanta Falcons, who were playing for the first time under new head coach Pat Peppler.

Pruitt's touchdown runs were for only one and two yards but he also had runs of 64 and 45 yards during the course of the game.

The Browns jumped into a 14-0 lead in the first period on one-yard TD runs by Pruitt and Cleo Miller but the Falcons came storming back, mainly on the passing of Kim McQuilken, to tie the score 14-14 at halftime.

The Falcon touchdowns came on a 23-yard run by Bubba Bean with 10:34 left in the half and an 18-yard pass from McQuilken to John Gilliam only 23 seconds before intermission.

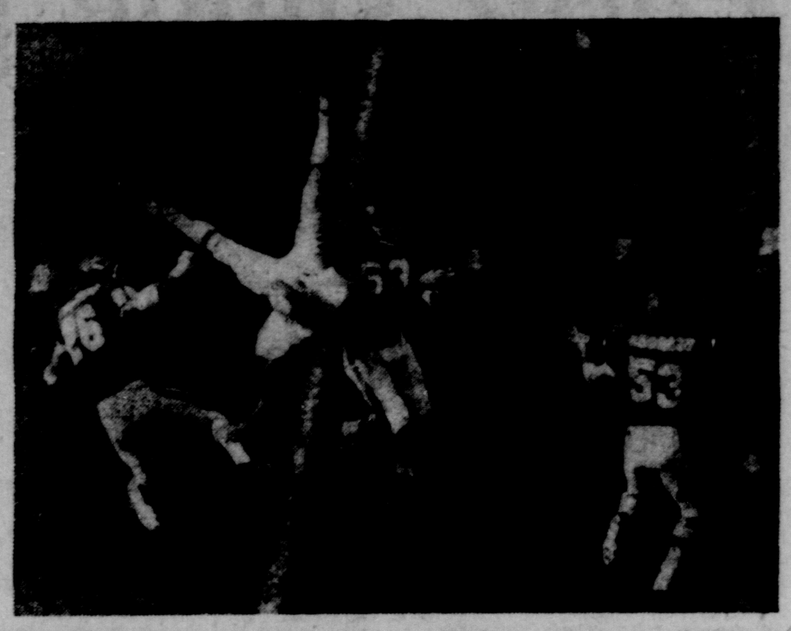

The Falcons capitalized on a fumble recovery early in the third period to go ahead 17-14 on a 33-yard field goal by Nick Mike-Mayer but the Browns regained the lead on a two-yard run by Pruitt as time ran out in the third period.

SEATTLE HITS WIN COLUMN

Jim Zorn passed for one touchdown and John Leypoldt kicked two field goals as the Seattle Seahawks outlasted the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 13-10 in a sloppy battle of previously winless expansion clubs. Zorn connected with wide receiver Sam McCullum for a 15-yard TD in the second period after the Bucs had taken the lead on a first period field goal.

Leypoldt kicked the extra point and the Seahawks were in front to stay. He put Seattle out of reach with second period field goals of 25 and 39 yards.

Tampa's Dave Green kicked a 38-yard field goal for the opening Buc score. The only Buc TD came late in the third period on a fluke play.

JIM MANDICH of the Miami Dolphins flips through the air after battling for a Bob Griese pass with Kansas City's Gary Barbaro (26) and Willie Lanier (63). Chiefs' Billy Andrews moves in to intercept the ball.

Baird tops Barber in Texas Open golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Butch Baird sank a nine-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff with Miller Barber Sunday to win the $125,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

Baird and Barber had tied at 15-under-par 273 on the 72nd hole of the tournament by both sinking birdies.

It was the first victory for Baird since he won the 1965 PGA National Four Ball Tournament in combination with Gay Brewer. The $25,000 first prize gave him a total of $72,976 in money winnings for the year.

Barber earlier had criticized the decision of PGA officials to postpone instead of cancel Friday's second round. The round was completed Saturday and 36 holes were played Sunday. Barber said the postponement gave players who finished before a thunderstorm hit Friday a three-stroke advantage over those who had to play in gusty winds on Saturday.

Jets, Patriots seek first Monday win

FOXBORO, Mass. — The New England Patriots and New York Jets never have adjusted to Monday Night Football, as the record proves.

The Patriots are 0-3 in the nationally televised night games while the Jets are 0-7. The Patriots are a 13-point favorite to end their weeknight blahs at Schaefer Stadium Monday at the expense of the Jets.

But the visitors always have done well against New England. Jets quarterback Joe Namath is 15-2-1 against the Patriots and never has lost on New England soil or Polyturf. Additionally, the Jets are coming off their first win of the season and their initial victory under coach Lou Holtz, while the Patriots are trying to regroup from an unexpected 30-10 loss to Detroit.

Reds nix Sunday night Series game

CINCINNATI — President Bob Howsam said Sunday his Cincinnati Reds are and always have been steadfast opponents of having any World Series' games played on Sunday nights and added the only reason the practice was adopted this time was because baseball sought the extra revenue from television.

"I don't think this is sound for the game of baseball," Howsam said, referring to Sunday night's second game of the World Series which was played in frigid 45-degree weather at Riverfront Stadium and drew complaints from both the Cincinnati Reds' and New York Yankees' players.

"The main consideration should be for the fans who pay to come out and see the game," said the Reds' president.

"Naturally, we're trying to sell the game but not at the inconvenience of the fans who come out to the ballpark."

Los Angeles bids to host Olympics

BARCELONA, Spain—Los Angeles has made an unofficial approach to the International Olympic Committee to host the 1984 Olympics, IOC President Lord Killanin said Sunday.

Killanin said the IOC has received approaches from both Los Angeles and Tehran, but official invitations will not be sent out until 1978 and the site for the 1984 games will be chosen in Athens in October, 1978...

"The President of the U.S. Olympic Committee has mentioned the interest of the United States for 1984 and the continued interest of Los Angeles in hosting the games," Killanin said.

Los Angeles put in unsuccessful bids for both the 1976 and 1980 games.

Schafer stars in Cougars' 28-14 win over Hoffman

by ART MUGALIAN

Someday, maybe soon, Conant quarterback Scott Schafer could be proclaimed mayor of Hoffman Estates, but until then he'll have to settle for the Mayor's Cup.

Schafer did everything but count the votes as Conant celebrated homecoming with a 28-14 win over Hoffman Estates Saturday, taking possession of the Mayor's Cup for the first time.

The senior QB fired a 66-yard TD pass to Mike Walston in the fourth quarter to break a 14-14 tie, and later he booted a pressure, 48-yard punt to get the ball out of danger in the closing moments.

"I think you'll find that this Conant-Hoffman rivalry is really going to be a good one through the years," said winning coach John Ayres, who arrived at Conant just in time to lose the first game of the rivalry last year.

"It's not just that we beat Hoffman," Ayres continued. "But you have to remember that we've beaten both Hoffman and Schaumburg this year and that's what the kids were after."

It was Schafer who personally took charge, leading the Cougars to their third win in six games this season. Schafer passed for 96 yards and added 106 rushing, including a 39-yard TD scamper for Conant's first score.

"Hoffman took away two phases of our option offense," said Ayres. "So we knew that Scott was going to have to not only do the job passing, but also running the ball."

Hoffman's small but staunch defense held the Cougars scoreless the first 15 minutes, but a Hawk fumble ended up in the hands of Conant's Mike Weston in the second quarter and Schafer took over from there.

From the Hoffman 39, Schafer rolled left looking for receivers. Not finding any, he decided to run. The Cougar signalcaller broke two sure tackles inside the 30 and took it in for the TD. Then, after a five-yard penalty on the extra point, Schafer missed the kick conversion.

Hard-running Hawks Tresy Todd and Bob Kearley pounded into the line time and again and Hoffman QB John Staback mixed in a 14-yard pass to Todd and a 20-yarder to Mike Reilly as Hoffman scored the tying TD at 1:23 of the first half. Staback then booted the extra point and the Hawks held a 7-6 halftime lead.

"Hoffman is a very well-coached team," said Ayres. "And Staback is a really good athlete."

After Staback boomed a 47-yard punt to put Conant in a hole at their own 8 in the third quarter, Schafer ripped off another 39-yard run to get the Cougars out of trouble. Only a saving tackle by Staback prevented a TD.

"That was a counter-option by Schafer," pointed out Ayres. "They took away the pitch to Tony (Stompanato) so Scott had to take it on up himself. They were taking the big plays away from Tony and Jeff (Johnson), so Scott had to make the big plays himself."

Johnson, who came into the game as the league's second-leading rusher, scored on a three-yard plunge to cap that drive, and Stompanato contributed an 18-yard burst along the way.

Schafer tossed a two-point conversion pass to sophomore tight end Brad Goodman for a 14-7 lead, but Hoffman came right back to tie the score on a 13-yard pass from Staback to Todd.

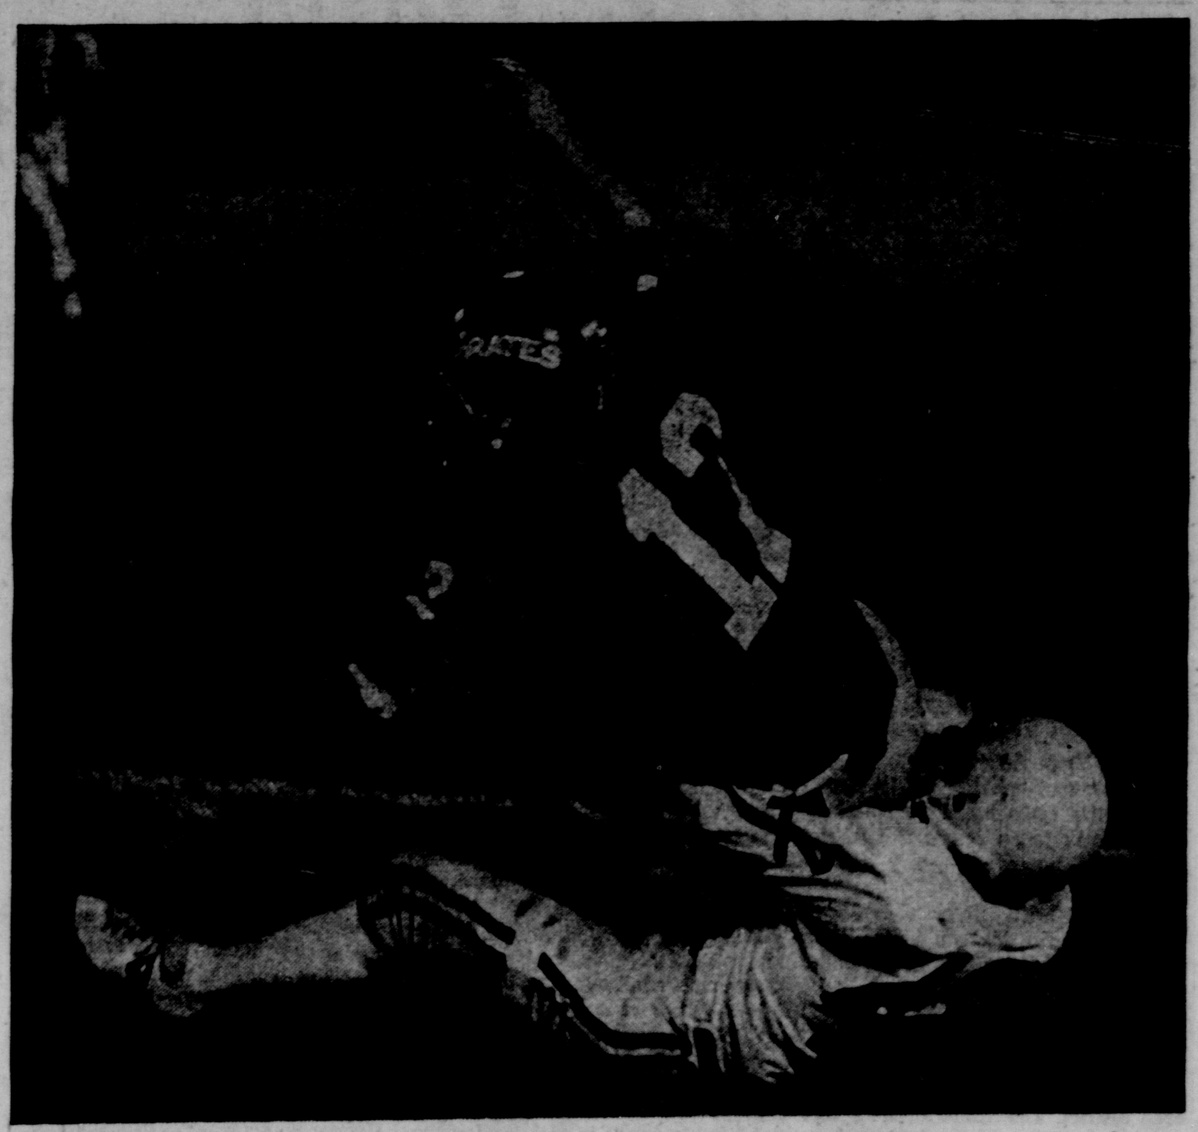

Four plays later, Schafer hooked up with Walston for the 66-yard scoring strike that meant victory. Walson took off on a post-pattern and had his man beaten by a step. Schafer delivered the ball on a dime.

"That's a tough pass to throw," said Ayres. "First he has to make a good play-action fake and then he has to bootleg to his left. It's a tough one to time up."

Johnson scored his second touchdown for the Cougars on the game's last play, a five-yard burst over the middle. Conant had gotten the ball back with 1:20 left after Hoffman's last gasp ended when Kearley was stopped two yards short of a first down at the Hawk 48.

Hoffman, now 2-4, had to start that drive from their own 40 after Schafer, standing inside his 15, punted 48 yards.

Schaumburg wins, 12-7

Saxons control Evanston

by JIM O'DONNELL

Longfellow once wrote, "All things come round to him who will but wait."

Schaumburg waited, 38 minutes to be exact, before coming round to take the lead against a big Evanston squad, and then hung on for a 12-7 Parents' Day win Saturday.

"We really thought we could win," Saxon head coach Bob Ferguson confessed after the fact. "We were smaller, but we were quicker. We were able to control the football pretty much, especially in the second half."

Schaumburg's ball control was the key to the game. In the second half, the Saxons held the ball for 15 minutes, running 25 plays that produced 110 yards. Evanston, meanwhile, was struggling to collect 14 total offensive yards in the final two quarters.

Nonetheless, the outcome was in doubt until the very end. "We should have scored at least twice more," Ferguson reflected. "There were some critical turnovers when we got down in their territory that killed us."

The Saxons were forced to go on the chase when Evanston scored first, on a twisting 18-yard run by John Jones three minutes into the second quarter. Curtis Wideman's extra point was good, and the Wildkits led, 7-0.

Two minutes and one punt later, Saxon Steve Atamian snared an Evanston fumble on his own 47, and the long march commenced. Staying exclusively on the turf, Steve Knudson, Mark Emrich, and Kevin Standiford pounded the ball down to the Evanston 15. Ailing quarterback Steve Conrad then went up top to Mike Orlowicz to the one, and Knudson rambled over for the touchdown. The conversion run failed, and Schaumburg trailed at the half, 7-6.

With three minutes left in the third quarter, Schaumburg mounted the drive that won the game. Taking over on their own 41, they drove to the Evanston 24 in 11 plays. On a first down at the 24, Knudson went slamming up the middle for what proved to be the winner.

"That play was a super effort by Knudson," Ferguson enthused afterwards. "With all the trouble we've been having inside the 20 this year, it wasn't surprising that we scored from farther out to win it."

Even after they took command, Schaumburg had a few fine scares. With four minutes left, Evanston drove to the Schaumburg 22, but a holding penalty put them back to the 37, and an interception on the ensuing play by Saxon Tim McGraw put them back on the bus to Evanston.

But just to make sure that Evanston wouldn't go home completely unhappy, the Saxons fumbled on their own 15 with 90 seconds to go in the game. Fortunately, Schaumburg guard Mike Kiley covered the loose ball. Two plays later, Mike Christy hammered a 39-yard punt, and when Evanston's two-minute offense produced the same

West has day of 'firsts' with impressive 20-6 win

by DOUG PALM

It was a day for "firsts."

Coach Jim Morel and his injury-plagued Maine West Warriors were able to play with a full deck Saturday for the first time all season and came away smiling winners.

The Warriors soundly defeated host Niles North, 20-6, for their initial victory of the fall campaign following five consecutive losses and numerous injuries.

"It's always satisfying to get that first win of the season," Morel noted afterwards, while waiting to board the team bus, "but especially after all the crippling injuries we've encountered."

After weeks of fielding a makeshift lineup of those healthy regulars and inexperienced reserves, Morel was able to go with a team which, seemingly, had existed only on paper.

The difference was notable in nearly every facet of the Warriors' game, especially that of the offensive and interior defensive lines.

Maine West enjoyed its most productive performance to date in running up 313 yards in total offense, while limiting their opponents to a season low of six points

Adversity would find no victim in Maine West this Saturday, as it had in past weeks.

The Warriors displayed their mettle in overcoming fumbles which broke up their opening two possessions. The Maine West defense, however, held its ground after both turnovers, thwarting Niles North inside the Maine 30-yard line in both instances.

The Warriors' third possession was the charmer, as tailback Bob Aslan broke two long runs of 26 and 35 yards en route to a five play, 71 yard scoring drive. Fullback Forrest Wantroba bolted into the endzone from three yards out for the touchdown, and Maine West had scored first.

The point after conversion was never attempted, due to a high snap from center.

If there was a crucial point in the game for Maine West, it followed very quickly on the ensuing kickoff.

Viking tailback Ken Blakey fielded Jim Vaccarello's kick at his 15-yard line and returned it 85 yards to the Maine West endzone for a stunning 6-6 tie. The conversion was wide, however, but the question remained, whether the Warriors could react to this latest adversity.

React they did, and positively, too. Quarterback Bob Zuccarini, who may have suffered most from his teammates' injuries, directed the Warriors on a 17-play, 63-yard scoring drive.

The Warriors executed well and the offensive line blocked as if they had never been apart, when, in fact, they had not played together since the Evanston game on Sept 17.

As he had earlier, Forrest Wantroba finished off the drive, when he bulled his way over left guard from a yard out. Facing fourth and inches at the five-yard line, the Warriors gained the necessary yardage for the first down, when the officials whistled Niles North for illegal procedure. Two plays later Wantroba had his second touchdown of the afternoon.

Zuccarini passed to Bob Earhart for the two-point conversion and a 14-6 Maine West lead.

The only scoring in the second half was sudden and swift.

Following a Niles North punt after the Vikings opening possession, Zuccarini and company silenced the festive Viking Homecoming with a 3 play, 70 yard drive.

Sophomore tailback Gary Crossland sped 20 yards to midfield. Following a four-yard loss when he was sacked, Zuccarini delivered a perfectly thrown pass to Pat Hartley, as the two hooked up for a 54-yard scoring play.

For the day Zuccarini was four of six for 98 yards. Aslan led all rushers with 118 yards on 18 carries, while Crossland added 60.

"Injuries . . . we've had more than our share," said Morel, now 1-5 on the year and 1-3 in the CSL-South. "Wins. We plan to have a few more."

Pro Pate 'aids' Zambole

Four golf teams qualify

by KEITH REINHARD
Golf Editor

Professional Jerry Pate wasn't out competing in the blustery weather Friday while the Illinois State High School Assn. conducted its annual district golf competition.

His spirit was though, and Nick Zambole of Palatine will be attending the sectional playoffs again this year because of it.

Zambole joined with four other area individuals making the cut at three sites Friday. Meanwhile, Prospect and Buffalo Grove stormed to district titles and were joined in the team qualifying ranks by Rolling Meadows and Forest View.

Jerry Pate's influence was felt at the Deerfield District meet where Zambole finished in a five-way tie for eighth place on the medalist list at 80. The rules say that only the top three individuals not attached to one of the top three finishing teams may advance to the sectional ranks this weekend.

That gave Hersey's Mark Miesfeldt a berth at 79 and left two more openings to be filled by either Zambole, Fremd's Dave Witt, Huskie Brad Hall and Lance Choos of Highland Park via a playoff. The other 80 belonged to a team qualifying Lake Forest entry.

Three of the golfers drove their shots right up the fairway.

Zambole sliced his into the rough and it came to rest under a thorn bush.

"The only way I could hit it was on my knees," explained Zambole. "It's funny though, I was just reading an article by Jerry Pate a couple of days ago on how to make this kind of shot. It must have helped."

Sure enough, from that awkward position Zambole drove right to the green and parred the hole. Witt bogied to fill in the third slot and the other two finished with double bogies.

Bison Bob Hoffman tied for medalist honors at 77 while leading his team to the title, with veterans Mike Marshall and Dan Krolack chipping in 79s for coach Fred Van Iten's crew.

At the Winnetka Golf Club, where hosting New Trier East was highly favored after winning the Champaign Centennial Invite two weeks earlier, it was dizzling 75s by Scott Spielmann and Dave Fatina that pushed coach George Bork's Knights over the top.

Prospect outdistanced Maine South 310-321 while New Trier West, the other favorite, finished third at 324.

The Indians were at 325. Their ace shooter Paul Hinsley had fashioned a 114 score on the par five second hole to more than make the difference.

Weather conditions were a factor everywhere Friday, with the temperatures plummeting and winds rising. Nowhere was this more evident than at Indian Lakes where only golfer — Joe Jusar of Hoffman Estates — could score below 81.

"It was the gusts that were murderous," pointed out Mustang pilot Mike Nisen. "They were strong and unpredictable. It wasn't a good day for golf."

It was a good day for his Meadows group though, with Scott Sander foregoing an 83 to pace the team to a 341 and second place honors. "Just about everybody else was affected by the wind and cold but we just played our regular game," Nisen added.

Maine West nearly pulled off the same trick at White Pines. They shot a 339 for seventh place, but it was only four strokes away from the qualifying round turned in by Fenton.

ARLINGTON'S NO. 1 singles player Leslie Grabitz returns a shot during the MSL championship meet Saturday at Hersey. Grabitz lost to Buffalo Grove's Lisa Smart but Arlington won the team title.

Two Falcon girls in state meet

Forest View finished well behind Glenbrook South and New Trier East in the girls district golf competition but was still just a couple of strokes away from qualifying nearly a full group of players.

Falcons Marita Rhea and Judy Pleickhardt will advance to the Illinois State High School Assn. state playoffs in Bloomington this weekend. They'll be going for the second straight year, but will be making the trip as individuals this time.

Only the top two teams qualify at each district. The Titans fired at 419 and the Indians a 425 while Forest View finished at 448 and Wheeling at 511 in the Glenview-hosted meet.

Three individuals not belonging to one of the top finishing teams are also qualified to advance and that gave the nod to medalist Lavon Seabolt of West Leyden at 92 along with runnersup Rhea (106) and Plejckhardt (113).

Ties are included, however, which meant that if Falcons Pam Boggs (114) and Linda Baylis (115) had been just a couple of strokes better, they too would have advanced.

Forest View, under the coaching of Paula Shearer, took a 3-4 overall dual meet record into the tournament. They finished fifth in their conference with a 2-4 mark.

Carla Rub of Prospect, the other finalist, topped Fremd's Pam Orbin in the semis 6-3, 6-3 then fell to Haberkorn 6-4, 6-2.

Sears won her No. 3 singles title from Prospect's Julie Schwem, 6-0, 6-0.

Sears defeated Schaumburg's Diane Kretz 6-1, 6-0 in the semifinals while Schwem advanced with a 3-6, 6-2, 7-5 decision of Buffalo Grove's Julia Harvey.

Smart got some competition from Hoffman Estates' Kate Swaya in the No. 1 singles semifinals before winning 2-6, 6-0, 6-1. Grabitz reached the finals with a 6-3, 7-6 win over Hersey's Debby Sampson.

Prospect's Hahn and Young handled Arlington's No. 1 doubles entry of Laura Sanders and Kim Boderick 1-6, 6-4, 6-3 in the semifinals.

Jimenez and Keagle moved into the championship round with a 6-3, 6-1 win over Palatine's Cindy Charlier and Linda Wojcik.

Fremd's Mary Harring and Lorii Teutsch were the victims of Weber and Richey's No. 2 doubles triumph as they fell 6-0, 6-3.

Pugsley and Klawitter won the No. 3 doubles title by beating Prospect's Carol DiPrima and Vicki Moore 6-3, 6-4.

Final standings (Dual meets and conference meet) 1. Arlington 102, 2. Prospect 87, 3. Buffalo Grove 69, 4. Fremd 59, 5. Rolling Meadows 55, 6. Forest View 53, 7. Hersey 50, 8. Elk Grove 42, 9. Palatine 38, 10. Schaumburg 24 and Wheeling 24, 12. Hoffman Estates 23, 13. Conant 7.

Forest View wins in soccer.

George Brousalis and Willie Klein powered home goals for Forest View Saturday, leading the Falcons to a 2-1 triumph over Wheeling in conference soccer action.

It was only the second setback sustained by the Wildcats this fall. The Falcons, after dropping their opener to Fremd, have reeled off 10 straight games without a loss, including seven victories in a row.

Wolfgang Klein assisted Brousalis and Tom Sroka fed Willi Klein to give Forest View a 2-0 lead in the third quarter. Wheeling countered later in the third period on a Rainer Engelmann goal assisted by John Bychowski.

Pacing the Falcon defense was center halfback Dave Marofske. Forest View had 32 shots on goal to 14 by the 'Cats.

Maine West blanked Niles North 2-0 as Felix Garoz and Dean Carpenter tallied.

Fremd runs to easy Union Oil win

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross-Country Editor

John Filosa never had a finer kick or a poorer start. The Fremd carrier sprinted past Maine West's Brian Tolan in the final 100 yards to lead his Vikings to an easy victory in the first Fremd Cross-Country Invitational at Union Oil Saturday morning.

But Filosa wasn't even around when the gun went off. The dark-haired senior was still getting out of his sweats when the rest of the 70 varsity runners took off on their three-mile trek.

"John wasn't even on the line," said Fremd coach Ron Menely, who masterminded the entire meet — all except the start.

"The whole team got out very poorly," Menely went on. "We were at the very back of the pack."

But the state's No. 1 Vikings moved up impressively so that at the end Bob Ratcliffe, Dan Inbody, Tom Ross, Rolando Garza, and Filosa himself had captured flight victories. Filosa's time of 15:04 was senational, considering he had to come from so far "behind."

"He was a good 50 yards from last place at the start," said Menely. "You really have to give John credit. I'm really proud of him."

Filosa was still 20 to 25 yards behind Tolan within 100 yards of the finish, but he sprinted full-blast to make up the difference and edged in front of the Warrior runner right at the chute.

Dan Tischler of Fremd was fifth overa-ll and second in his flight and Filosa's brother Matt was ninth in the race, third in his flight.

Fremd also won the freshman and sophomore levels while Downers Grove North took the girls title. Fremd was third on the girls level.

Maine West had an off-day. The Warriors' second runner was Gary Paul in 41st place as the team finished a distant fifth with 30 points. Fremd had 10 points and West Leyden, in second place, had 19 in the 10-team meet.

At Mattoon, Palatine took first place with 120 points, edging Lebanon (147). Hersey finished eighth (298) in the field of 40 teams.

The Pirates, running without Brian Kessler or Jon Dahlgren, still managed to put four harriers in the top 30. Junior Tom Johnson was fifth over-all (14:16), 26 seconds behind winner Jim Spivey of Fenton.

The other Palatine scorers were Tony Vargas (9th), Chuck Elliott (12th), Kevin Nikolai (28th), and Dave Imig (68th).

"We almost didn't run Elliott," said coach Joe Johnson, who held out Kessler and Dahlgren because those two runners are still not 100 per cent. "It was a good thing Imig was where he was."

Palatine's Kevin Koy was back in 92nd place.

Hersey soph Steve Johnson was 18th over-all, followed by teammate Rich Rieger, another sophomore, in 24th. St. Viator junior Dave Efken finished 32nd.

Forest View's Darryl Robinson placed second in the Addison Trail Invite behind winner Doug Diekama of winning Wheaton North. Diekema's time was 14:02 and Robinson's was 14:12.

Forest View was third in the meet and Prospect, led by Mark Smith's ninth-place finish, took fifth. Elk Grove was sixth as Gren senior Joe Cullen captured seventh place in the race in 14:40. Forest View's Bob Haas was 16th.

Conant was seventh and Buffalo Grove 11th in the 27-team field at Sterling, where DeKalb won first-place honors behind Tom Wuchte's sterling effort.

Joe Schmidt of Buffalo Grove placed fourth over-all in 14:38, 11 seconds behind Wuchte. The Bison junior finished ahead of Conant's first man, Dan Cummings, who was ninth.

Harper smashes Triton; Joliet visits Saturday

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

DuWayne Mill, Harper's receiver-punter-defensive back, had a very happy birthday Saturday.

Not only did the Hawks blast Triton 31-8 for their fifth win in six games, Mill punted four times for better than 52 yards a kick and caught five passes for 171 yards and a touchdown.

The touchdown, a 51-yarder from Jeff Thilgen, gave Mill a chance to do a backflip in the end zone, something he had vowed to do if he scored.

It was a genuinely fine day for the Hawks, setting up next Saturday's homecoming confrontation with nationally ranked Joliet.

"We did a little bit of everything today," said head coach John Eliasik. "Our rushing defense improved and we got a balanced offense again."

Harper's offense, which was used primarily to give the defense a four play rest earlier this year, has become the dominant portion of the Hawks' game the past three weeks.

With 444 total yards against Triton, the Hawks have produced over 1,100 yards and 88 points while winning their last three straight.

"The offense has been a lot better since we've been able to throw," Eliasik said. "Most teams use their running game to set up the pass but we've been doing just the opposite."

The passing of Jim Atkinson (seven for 20 for 178 yards) and Thilgen (one for two, 51 yards) set up running backs Butch Allen and Rich Hoevel and those two took it from there.

Allen rushed 20 times for 116 yards and scored two touchdowns. Hoevel gained 57 yards in 11 carries and scored once.

"Hoevel did a helluva job reading the counter," Eliasik said. "Butch had one of his best games I've ever seen. He was fired all week and we knew he'd have a good game.

"He did some sticking on defense, too."

Except for some half hearted tackling in the second quarter, Harper's entire defense did a lot of sticking.

Triton quarterback Phil Felten gave up trying to pass and scooted 23 yards around the left sideline and several Harper players for Triton's only touchdown.

Assistant coach Ward Nelson said, "That was just sloppy tackling. We've been disappointed in the tackling all season and four guys had a shot at that guy."

Triton's touchdown cut Harper's lead to 14-8.

The offense moved right up to Triton's one-yard line on their second possession, then fumbled. They shook that mistake off, though, on their next series as Hoevel cashed from the seven.

Early in the second period Atkinson fired to Mill for 43 yards and Allen scored his first touchdown, again from the seven.

Dennis Drinan's 20-yard field goal ended Harper's scoring for the first half.

The defense started to make things happen in the second half.

Felten went down the line on the option, got popped by Bill Wilson and lost the ball to Steve Long.

A bad snap on a punt gave Harper the ball on Triton's 22 yard line a little later and Allen sprinted in from there for his second touchdown.

Dan Rosado, John Lipp, Long, Greg Goldman and Ted Tyk all got sacks on Felten in the second half and Sam Zavatsky picked off his first interception of the season.

Zavatsky was singled out for praise by the coaching staff.

"Sam doesn't get in much," Eliasik said, "but he works as hard as any kid on the team."

"He gets more than the maximum out of his abilities," Nelson added.

So it was a fine day for Sam Zavatsky. Almost like a birthday.

Mustang girls earn 'vote' as state's top archery team

by PAUL LOGAN

The "primary election" was held last weekend in Illinois and an unknown "candidate" is the leading contender for the state's "highest position."

Prospects' Carol Hoekelberg takes aim.

Rolling Meadows, a school that just added archery as a girls' sport this fall, earned the "vote" as the team to beat after Saturday's "district elections."

The Meadows Mustangs of Coach Ken Bates won the toughest district in the state with a score of 2508 at Maine West.

Freeburg, a school of about 600 located near downstate Belleville, was the only team among the 28 competing throughout the state to come close to the Mustangs.

Known for having a strong program (the team has won every event it has participated in over the past four years) and a past winner of the GAA Postal Meet, Freeburg won its own district with a 2492 total. Having three out of four seniors on its team, this downstate school would have to be considered the "veteran candidate" in the running for the inaugural state title next weekend at Normal.

However, Rolling Meadows has had tougher competition in its first season as a member of the Mid-Suburban League. Seven teams from the MSL recorded scores that ranked in the top 16.

Arch rival Prospect was second to the Mustangs at Maine West, scoring 2435. Maine was third with 2365, but only the top two teams from each district can qualify.

West did have four of its five girls earn individual berths in the finals. The top five girls not including individuals from the qualifying teams advance from each of the six state districts.

Ranking fourth and fifth among state teams were Glenbrook North and Arlington. Glenbrook won its own district, defeating Arlington and four other MSL schools with a 2348 total. Arlington was second with 2245.

Hersey (2190), Fremd (2182), Palatine (2165) and Buffalo Grove (2121) all finished higher than three other teams that qualified for the finals. (See complete team and individual details in the scoreboard.)

Three other MSL schools competed at the Lake Park District, (Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Conant) but they failed to qualify as a team. Lake Park won with a 2251 with Glenbard North second at 1948.

Individually, Rolling Meadows was led by Maria Recker's 665 — the top score in the state districts. Freeburg's Brenda Borger's 652 was the second best score with her teammate — Cindy Trentman — having the third best at 637.

"She (Recker) had trouble or she would have had her high (for the season)," said Bates. "I don't know what it was — the wind or what. But when she got in a little closer, she made it up with three perfect ends."

Recker recorded her first perfect end (six arrows in the gold center of the target) from 30 yards and had her third and fourth season perfects from 20 yards.

"I just have to say I'm exceedingly proud and surprised," said Bates while commenting on his team's strong district showing as compared to the over-all state scores. "Nancy Namovicz (628) had her highest score ever. Rhonda Ragan (623) went up another 15 or 20 points for her all-time high.

"I'm pleased to see a team (Freeburg) come up that strong. And I know if Prospect has a good day and we have a bad day, they could beat us. I know my girls have to accept that challenge."

Rounding out Meadows' top four archers was Peggy Oman with 592.

Doing the job for Prospect coach Sandy Pifer were Carol Hoeckelberg (632), Karen Kurka (609), Janice Lapp (598) and Jeanne Lapp (596).

Arlington coach Linda Angeloff will be taking Jennie Krock (580), Pam Hahn (558), Vicki Dale (554) and Sally Scheetz (553) downstate.

The state finals, which will be hosted by Illinois State University, will begin on Friday at the university golf course and will conclude on Saturday.

result as that of Tampa Bay's, the issue was decided.

"I've got to say this was our best game of the year," Ferguson commented. "Even with the mistakes we made, the kids just turned in a super effort."

The Schaumburg offense was paced by the fine running of Knudson (137 yards) and Standiford (52 yards). Christy, normally a halfback, rendered a fine performance at quarterback.

For the defense, tackle George Tuzil anchored the four-man Great Wall of Schaumburg, limiting the run-oriented Wildkits to just five first downs. Lindsey Ryan also was instrumental in stopping Evanston.

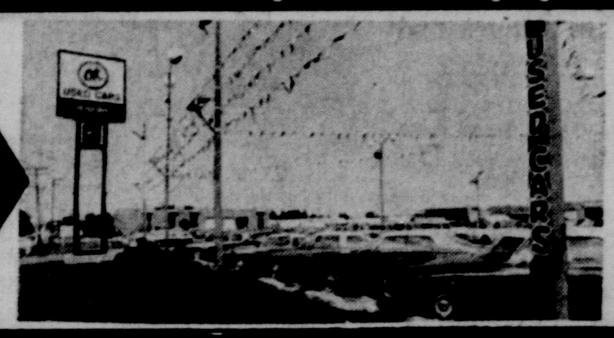

"We scheduled Evanston because we felt we had to gain some respectability for us and for the Mid-Suburban League," Ferguson said afterwards. "I think we accomplished that today."
